HANCHER PRESENTS

The Foundation for Dance Promotion
BILL T. JONES/ANNIE ZANE & CO.

LAST SUPPER
AT UNCLE TOM'S CABIN/
THE PROMISED LAND

Saturday, February 2, 1991—8:00 p.m.

Directed by Bill T. Jones
Music composed by Julius Hemphill
Music performed live by The Julius Hemphill Sextet
Sets and Costumes designed by Chuck Snyder
Lighting designed by Robert Wierzel

with
Bill T. Jones
Arthur Aviles
Leonard Cruz
Sean Curran
Lawrence Goldhuber
Gregg Hubbard
Heidi Latsky
Betsy McCracken
Maya Saffrin
Andrea Woods

GUEST ARTISTS
R. Justice Allen
John Cowles
Sage Cowles
Niles Ford
Andrea E. Smith

THE JULIUS HEMPHILL SIXTET
Julius Hemphill
Kenny Berger
James Carter
Marty Ehrlich
Carl Gulin
Andrew White

Special Guest Speaker - Estella Jones

This production was made possible, in part, by public funds from the National Endowment for the Arts. InterArts Program and the New York State Council on the Arts.

The commission fees for this composer/choreographer collaboration were made possible by a grant from Meet the Composer's/Choreographer Project, a national program funded by the Ford Foundation, and the Pew Charitable Trusts.

This performance is supported, in part, by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.
HANCHER PRESENTS

Hancher Auditorium
Iowa Center for the Arts
The University of Iowa

The Foundation for Dance Promotion
BILL T. JONES/ARNIE ZANE & CO.

LAST SUPPER
AT UNCLE TOM'S CABIN/
THE PROMISED LAND

Saturday, February 2, 1991—8:00 p.m.

Directed by Bill T. Jones
Music composed by Julius Hemphill
Music performed live by the Julius Hemphill Sextet
Sets and Costumes designed by Huck Snyder
Lighting designed by Robert Wierzel

with
Bill T. Jones
Arthur Aviles
Leonard Cruz
Sean Curran
Lawrence Goldhuber
Gregg Hubbard
Heidi Latsky
Betsy McCracken
Maya Saffrin
Andrea Woods

GUEST ARTISTS
R. Justice Allen
John Cowles
Sage Cowles
Niles Ford
Andrea E. Smith

THE JULIUS HEMPHILL SIXTET
Julius Hemphill
Kenny Berger
James Carter
Marty Ehrlich
Carl Gubris
Andrew White
Special Guest Speaker - Estella Jones

This production was made possible, in part, by public funds from the National Endowment for the Arts Inter-Arts Program and the New York State Council on the Arts.

The commission fees for this composer/chorographer collaboration were made possible by a grant from Meet the Composer/Choreographer Project, a national program funded by the Ford Foundation, and the Pew Charitable Trusts.

This performance is supported, in part, by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.
PROGRAM

1. “Overture”

2. “The Cabin”
   Prologue: Abraham Lincoln’s 2nd Inaugural Address
   Original text by Ann T. Green
   “The Cabin” section was commissioned by the University of California at Berkeley and the University of California at Los Angeles.

   Enact: The Dogs

3. “Eliza On The Ice”
   Text by: Bill T. Jones, Heidi Latsky, and Sojoamer Truth
   Film conceived by: Huck Snyder
   Film produced and directed by: Laurie Weltz
   “Eliza On The Ice” was commissioned by the Jacob’s Pillow Dance Festival, Art Awareness, and the University of Arizona.

   Enact: A Prayer

4. “The Supper”
   Text: Ezekiel’s Lamentations, Chapter 3
   “Somethin’ to think about” written and performed by: R. Justice Allen, the “Beat Box” performed by: Arthur Aviles

   “The Supper” section was commissioned by Hancher Auditorium.

   Intermission

5. “The Promised Land”
   Prologue: Faith
   Text by: Bill T. Jones (adapted from “I Have a Dream” by Martin Luther King, Jr.), Lenox Jones (N_atom Baraka) (Excerpts from The Dutchman, Act II), and Sage Cowles.
   “The Promised Land” was commissioned by the Walker Art Center and the Northrop Auditorium at the University of Minnesota.

   Bill T. Jones would like to thank the dancers for their creative contributions to the work.

---

On the Cover

In keeping with the theme of the 1990-91 Hancher season brochure, Cultivating the Arts, we feature the work of Grant Wood on the cover of the season’s Playbill. Four of his lithographs have been reproduced. Fertility, January, March, and July 1538. All are in the permanent collection of the University of Iowa Museum of Art and were a gift of the late Edwin B. Green of Iowa City.

Located just north of the Art Building complex along the west bank of the Iowa River, the Museum of Art is a major element among the cultural resources of eastern Iowa. The permanent collection totals more than 6,500 paintings, prints, drawings, sculptures, photographs, and decorative art.

Admission is free to all exhibitions. Museum hours are 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday; noon to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday.

---

CELLINI: WHERE TIME IS ART

The new Rolex Ben-Venuto Cellini Collection of 18kt gold dress timepieces is handcrafted in beautiful detail. The pur, simple lines of the thin case are accentuated by three elegant bracelets. On the left is the “Damascus”, on the right is the “Milano”, and in the center is the deluxe leather strap. Available in three model sizes with your choice of dial, the new Rolex Cellini Collection renews the art of the Renaissance.
Give your bargain hunting enthusiasm a real outlet. Save a bundle on top-quality clothing from the Lands’ End catalog—“outlet priced” at 20% or more off the original catalog prices! not all sizes and colors available.

On the Cover
In keeping with the theme of the 1990-91 Hancher season brochure, Cultivating the Arts, we feature the work of Grant Wood on the covers of the season’s Playbill. Four of his lithographs have been reproduced. Fertility, January, March, and July 15K. All are in the permanent collection of The University of Iowa Museum of Art and were a gift of the late Edwin B. Green of Iowa City.

Located just north of the Art Building complex along the west bank of the Iowa River, the Museum of Art is a major element among the cultural resources of eastern Iowa. The permanent collection totals more than 8,500 paintings, prints, drawings, sculptures, photographs, and decorative art.

Admission is free to all exhibitions. Museum hours are 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday; noon to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday.

PROGRAM

1. “Overture”

2. “The Cabin”
   Prologue: Abraham Lincoln’s 2nd Inaugural Address
   Original text by Ann T. Green
   “The Cabin” was commissioned by the University of California at Berkeley and the University of California at Los Angeles.

   Enacte: The Dogs

3. “Eliza On The Ice”
   Text by: Bill T. Jones, Heidi Latsky, and Sojoamer True
   Films conceived by: Huck Snyder
   Film produced and directed by: Laurie Weltz
   “Eliza On The Ice” was commissioned by the Jacob’s Pillow Dance Festival, Art Awareness, and the University of Arizona.

   Enacte: A Prayer

4. “The Supper”
   Text: Ezekiel’s Lamentations, Chapter 3
   “Sonzin’ to think about” written and performed by: R. Justice Allen, the “Beat Box” performed by: Arthur Aviles

   “The Supper” section was commissioned by Hancher Auditorium.

   Intermision

5. “The Promised Land”
   Prologue: Faith
   Text by: Bill T. Jones (adapted from “I Have a Dream” by Martin Luther King, Jr.), Leroy Jones (Artisan Baraka) (Excerpts from The Dutchman, Act 11), and Suge Cowles.

   “The Promised Land” was commissioned by the Walker Art Center and the Northrop Auditorium at the University of Minnesota.

Bill T. Jones would like to thank the dancers for their creative contributions to the work.

BILL T. JONES/ARNIE ZANE & CO.

Executive Director
Vesia J. Briggs

Assistant to the Executive Director
Jodi Pau Reiter

Assistant to the Choreographer
Sean Curran

Rehearsal Director
Lonne Moreton

Touring Rehearsal Director
Valerie Williams

Artistic Director
Bill T. Jones

Company Manager
Rebecca His

Production Stage Manager
Gregory Bain

Assistant Stage Manager
Monica White-Burrill

Technical Director
Jay Horne

Local Dancers

Emily Bernard Jackson
Kimberly Brescher
Telly Bruse
J. F. Campbell
Nora Christensen
Anthony Currin
Sarah Davison
Liza Nichole Decoeur
Rya Dunnington
J. C. Fitzpatrick
Brooke Giebert
Monique Griner

Lana Lydon-Hatten
Clyde Howell
Heather Huston
Jennifer Kern Johnson
Kenneth Koester
J. W. Laughlin
Alexis Leecock
Paula McArthur
Mark McCusker
Mathew Tyms Martin
Kathleen Mills
Julie Nolan

Maryann O’Brien
Jean C. Paul
Bruno Pigott
Bromic Pryor
Steve Rieger
Susan Rieger
Janel F. Rollin
Chris Soldan
Richard K. Thompson
Natalie Trimmle
Elizabeth Voss
Saniece Kay Wainerberg

Dedicated to the growth and enrichment of the arts.

CELLINI: WHERE TIME IS ART
The new Rolex Venetian Cellini Collection of 18K gold dress timepieces is hand-finished in beautiful detail. The park, simple lines of the thin case are accentuated by three elegant bracelets. On the left is the “Damasco”, on the right is the “Milanesa”, and in the center is the deluxe leather strap. Available in three model sizes with your choice of finish, the new Rolex Cellini Collection revives the art of the Renaissance.

The precise quality movement is housed in an elegant, white-tinted case.
The Company

BILL T. JONES (Artistic Director)
entered college as an athlete and actor. His first dance training began at the State University of New York at Binghamton, where he studied classical ballet and modern dance. In 1975, after living in Amsterdam, Mr. Jones returned to SUNY and became co-founder of the American Dance Asylum. Before forming Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co., in 1982, Mr. Jones choreographed and performed as a soloist and duet company with his partner, Arnie Zane, touring nationally and internationally. From 1978-81, Mr. Jones was an Affiliate Artist and worked with communities throughout the United States. In 1979, Mr. Jones received the Creative Artists Public Service Award in Choreography, and in 1980, 1981, and 1982 he was the recipient of Choreographic Fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts. In 1983, Alvin Alley commissioned a work from Mr. Jones, entitled Fever Swamp, that was filmed for WNET's "Great Performances" series. In 1986, Mr. Jones and Arnie Zane were awarded a New York Dance and Performance Award/Besse for their season at the Joyce Theater. Mr. Jones has also taught at numerous institutions throughout the country, most recently the University of Los Angeles (UCLA) and Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut. Mr. Jones' recent television credits include Entitled (an evocation in movement and image of a lost partner) for "Alive From Off Center" which aired nationally on PBS in July, 1989. In September, 1989, Mr. Jones was awarded a New York Dance and Performance (Besse) Award for D-Man in the Waters which premiered during the company's Joyce Theater season in March, 1989. Most recently, Mr. Jones made his debut in the world of opera, choreographing Michael Tippett's New Year under the direction of Sir Peter Hall for the Houston Grand Opera and the Glyndebourne Festival Opera. In May, 1990, Mr. Jones directed The Mother of Three Sons, an opera which he also choreographed, for the Munich Biennale. This season, Mr. Jones will co-direct the film version of New Year for the BBC in England.

ARNIE ZANE (1948-1988) was a native New Yorker born in the Bronx and educated at the State University of New York at Binghamton. In 1971, Arnie Zane and Bill T. Jones began their long collaboration in choreography and in 1973, formed the American Dance Asylum in Binghamton with Lew Christy. Mr. Zane's first recognition in the arts came as a photographer when he received a Creative Artists Public Service (CAPS) Fellowship in 1973. Mr. Zane was the recipient of a second CAPS Fellowship in 1981 for choreography as well as two Choreographic Fellowships from the American Dance Asylum.
The Company

BILL T. JONES (Artistic Director) entered college as an athlete and actor. His first dance training began at the State University of New York at Binghamton, where he studied classical ballet and modern dance. In 1975, after living in Amsterdam, Mr. Jones returned to SUNY and became co-founder of the American Dance Asylum. Before forming Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co., in 1982, Mr. Jones choreographed and performed as a soloist and duet company with his partner, Arnie Zane, touring nationally and internationally. From 1978-81, Mr. Jones was an Affiliate Artist and worked with communities throughout the United States. In 1979, Mr. Jones received the Creative Artists Public Service Award in Choreography, and in 1980, 1981, and 1982 he was the recipient of Choreographic Fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts. In 1985, Alvin Alley commissioned a work from Mr. Jones, entitled Fever Swamp, that was filmed for WNET's "Great Performances" series. In 1986, Mr. Jones and Arnie Zane were awarded a New York Dance and Performance Award/Besse for their season at the Joyce Theater.

Mr. Jones has also taught at numerous institutions throughout the country, most recently the University of Southern California and Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut. Mr. Jones' recent television credits include "Entitled" (an evocation in movement and image of a lost partner) for "Alive From Off Center" which aired nationally on PBS in July, 1989. In September, 1989, Mr. Jones was awarded a New York Dance and Performance (Besse) Award for "D-Man in the Waters" which premiered during the company's Joyce Theater season in March, 1989. Most recently, Mr. Jones made his debut in the world of opera, choreographing Michael Todd's "New Year" under the direction of Sir Peter Hall for the Houston Grand Opera and the Glyndebourne Festival Opera. In May, 1990, Mr. Jones directed The Mother of Three Sons, an opera which he also choreographed, for the Munich Biennale. This season, Mr. Jones will co-direct the film version of New Year for the BBC in England.

ARNIE ZANE (1948-1988) was a native New Yorker born in the Bronx and educated at the State University of New York at Binghamton. In 1971, Arnie Zane and Bill T. Jones began their long collaboration in choreography and in 1973, formed the American Dance Asylum in Binghamton with Bill. Mr. Zane's first recognition in the arts came as a photographer when he received a Creative Artists Public Service (CAPS) Fellowship in 1973. Mr. Zane was the recipient of a second CAPS Fellowship in 1980 for choreography as well as two Choreographic Fellowships from the American Dance Asylum in Binghamton.

PIZZA • PASTA • APPETIZERS • DESSERTS
120 IMPORTED BEERS
10 SPECIAL MILL STOUTS
WINE BAR • LIQUORS
ESPRESSO • CAPPUCCINO

Sanctuary
Restaurant & Pub
405 S. Gilbert 351-5692

You'd enjoy the show more if your muscles weren't ORE

THERAPEUTIC MASSAGE
Ralph R. Stephens & Associates
Helping Hands Massage Therapy Ctr.
Call 338-9865 Iowa City
National Endowment for the Arts (1983, 1984). In 1980, Mr. Zane was co-recipient, with Bill T. Jones, of the German Critics Award for his work, _Blauenthal, Mountain, Rotary Act_, a duet with Mr. Jones, was filmed for television, co-produced with WGBH-TV Boston and Channel 4 in London. The Alvin Alley American Dance Theater commissioned a new work from Mr. Zane and Bill T. Jones, _How To Walk an Elephant_, which premiered in Washington, August, 1983. Mr. Zane (along with Mr. Jones) received a 1985-86 New York Dance and Performance (Bessie) Award for Choreographer/Creator.

An in-depth look at the work of Bill T. Jones and Arnie Zane can be found in _Body Against Body_. _The Dance and Other Collaborations of Bill T. Jones and Arnie Zane_, recently published by Station Hill Press.

ARTHUR AVILES (Dancer) began his training at Bard College under Jean Churchill, Albert Reid, Lenore Littiman and Susan Osberg. There he received two Don Parker awards for his dancing and a B.A. in theater/dance. Since then he has danced for Mr. Churchill and Larry Clark. This is his third season with Bill T. Jones Arnie Zane Co. where he has received a 1989 New York Dance and Performance Award (Bessie) for his performance at the Joyce Theater. In addition, he has choreographed his own dances as part of numerous showcases. He will be premiering a new dance _Maure (a New York-rican's ensembla)_ at the Ethnic Folk Arts Center and Dance Theater Workshop.

LEONARD CRUZ (Dancer) was born in Pampanga, the Philippines and grew up in Texas. He has a B.A. in dance from the University of California at Los Angeles and is currently an M.A. candidate there. He has performed with Kei Takao's Moving Earth and Shapiro and Smith Dance. In 1983, Leonard Cruz was named finalist in the Arts Recognition Talent Search and later that year was named a Presidential Scholar.

SEAN CURRAN (Dancer/Assistant to the Choreographer) is from the Boston area. While he studied and performed traditional Irish step dance as a child. He later studied modern dance, danced with Kel Wiwek Davis, and went on to earn his B.F.A. in dance from New York University Tisch School of the Arts. Sean received a 1984-85 New York Dance and Performance Award (Bessie) for _"...a powerful and riveting presence in Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Company's Secret Passions."_ He has danced with the company since 1984 and serves as a rehearsal director and assistant to Mr. Jones, working on repertory and outside choreography projects. Recently, Sean assisted Mr. Jones in choreographing Houston Grand Opera and Glyndebourne Festival Opera's production of _New Year_ in which Sean also danced the role of the Shan-aman. Sean is an adjunct faculty member of the Roger Williams College dance department where he has made and presented his own work and the collaborative duct choreography he enjoys making with Amy Pivar.

LAWRENCE GOLDBUBER (Dancer/Actor) first danced professionally in 1983, working with Danny Sloan on a project for Lotus 1-2-3. More recently, he appeared at the Houston Grand Opera and Glyndebourne Festival Opera premiere productions of _Sir Michael Tippett's New Year_. He danced with New York City Ballet in the television show, "Fame." Ms. Latsky worked under the direction of Sir Peter Hall in the première of Sir Michael Tippett's opera, _New Year_.

Kohali Kahn in _Tides of Exile_ at Lincoln Center. Larry began working with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Co. in 1985. As an actor, Mr. Goldhuber has appeared in many commercials, films, and plays, most recently Snow White Undressed at Los Angeles Contemporary Theater and Art in New York. Earlier this year, Larry performed in his cabaret act, _A Dangerous Habit, Upstairs at Greene Street in New York City._

GREGG HUBBARD (Dancer/Actor) began dancing with Canton Ballet in his hometown, Ohio. He continued his education at the University of Michigan, finishing at North Carolina School of the Arts in 1987. Since then, he has appeared with numerous dance companies and in videos and commercials. Mr. Hubbard has also taught and choreographed for Yale University Education Center and for the Arts and Special Audiences Performing Group, Teen to Teen, in Newark, New Jersey. He recently assisted Mr. Jones in choreographing _The Three Sons for Munich Biennale_. Mr. Hubbard joined Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Co. in 1988.

HEIDI LATSKY (Dancer), a native of Minnesota, has been the recipient of two government grants for her choreography which she has shown in Canada, in the Caribbean, and New York City. She has danced with various New York choreographers, most recently with Robert Alexander, Kallman, Ruby Shung, and Donald Byrd. She has also danced in numerous numbers taught by the television show, "Fame." Ms. Latsky worked under the direction of Sir Peter Hall in the première of Sir Michael Tippett's opera, _New Year_. Ms. Latsky would like to give a special thank you to Jeffrey Ashton and Jean Claude West. This is Ms. Latsky's third season with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Co.

BETSY MCCracken (Dancer) first began performing with the Dallas Metropolitan Ballet. She started her modern training with the Arts Magnet High School in Dallas, Texas and received a scholarship to attend the University of Texas in Austin. In the summer of 1986, she came to New York and began working with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane Co. Recently, Betsy worked in the Sir Peter Hall production of _Sir Michael Tippett's New Year._

MAYA Saffrin (Dancer) was born in Seattle, Washington. She began dancing in college at the University of Washington, then later attended Cornish Institute where she received her B.F.A. Since moving to New York City in 1985, she has performed with Milton Myers, the Clay Thompson Dance Co., the Murray Spalding Dance Theater, Deju Vu Dance Theater, and Ballet Hispanico. Maya has been a member of Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co. since November, 1989.

ANDREA E. WOODS (Dancer) is a native of Philadelphia where she began her dance training with Jean Williams at Germantown Dance Theater. She continued her education and graduated magna cum laude from Adelphi University. Ms. Woods has formerly danced with Clay Thompson, Leni Williams and Sackto ichirno dance companies. This is her first season with Bill T. Jones/ Arnie Zane Co.

R. JUSTICE ALLEN (Guest Artist) is an actor, songwriter, arranger, rapper, and playwright from Brooklyn, New York. A graduate of New York City Street Theater, where he studied under George Lee Miles. Justice recently performed with Ujamaa Black Theater, S.F.L. Productions, and Deodores Garland Productions. In addition, Justice can be seen in the film _Mo Better Blues_, as well as a number of music videos. His most rooted performance was in the Niagara Conservatory production of _Waiting for Godot._

JOHN COWLES (Guest Artist) grew up in Des Moines and Minneapolis and was graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy and Harvard College. After the Korean War, he spent 30 years with the _Minneapolis Star and Tribune_ and also served as a director of the Associated Press and member of the Pulitzer Board at Columbia University. During the 1970s, Mr. Cowles was a director for the Walker Art Center and first president of the Twin Cities Theater Foundation. In the late seventies, he helped get a covered stadium built in downtown Minneapolis for the Minnesota Twins and Vikings. More recently, he became an IDEA-certified aerobic dance instructor and teaching at the Sweatshop in St. Paul. He and Sage Cowles were married in 1952.

SAGE COWLES (Guest Artist) studied dance at the School of American Ballet with Hanya Holm, and with Martha H. Todd (University of Wisconsin in Madison. She appeared on the television show _Bless Your Heart_ (1951-53) and on the early TV show, _Lucky Strike Hit Parade._ Between 1977-83, she collaborated with filmmaker Molly Davies to make six film/performance...
National Endowment for the Arts (1983, 1984). In 1980, Mr. Zane was co-recipient, with Bill T. Jones, of the German Critics Award for his work, Bluewater Morning. Rotary Action, a duet with Mr. Jones, was filmed for television, co-produced with WGBH-TV Boston and Channel 4 in London. The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater commissioned a new work from Mr. Zane and Bill T. Jones, How To Walk an Elephant, which premiered at Wadsworth in August, 1983. Mr. Zane (along with Mr. Jones) received a 1985-86 New York Dance and Performance Award (Bessie) Award for Choreographer/Creator.

An in-depth look at the work of Bill T. Jones and Arnie Zane can be found in Body Against Body. The Dance and Other Collaborations of Bill T. Jones and Arnie Zane, recently published by Station Hill Press.

ARTHUR AVLINS (Dancer) began his training at Bard College under Jean Churchill, Albert Reid, Lenore Tailner, and Susan Osberg. There he received two Don Parker awards for his dancing and a B.A. in theater/dance. Since then he has danced for Ms. Churchill and Larry Clark. This is his third season with Bill T. Jones Arnie Zane Co. where he received a 1980 New York Dance and Performance Award (Bessie) for his performance at the Joyce Theater. In addition, he has choreographed his own dances as part of numerous showcases. He will be premiering a new dance, Muere (a New York-rican's envelada) at the Ethnic Folk Arts Center and Dance Theater Workshop.

LEONARD CRUZ (Dancer) was born in Pampanga, the Phillippines and grew up in Texas. He has a B.A. in dance from the University of California at Los Angeles and is currently an M.A. candidate there. He has performed with Kei Takeda's Moving Earth and Shapiro and Smith Dance. In 1983, Leonard Cruz was named finalist in the Arts Recognition Talent Search and later that year was named a Presidential Scholar.

SEAN CURRAN (Dancer/Assistant to the Choreographer) is from the Boston area where he studied and performed a traditional Irish step dance as a child. He later studied modern dance, danced with Delfi Wicke Davis, and went on to earn his B.F.A. in dance from New York University Tisch School of the Arts. Sean received a 1981-85 New York Dance and Performance Award (Bessie) for "...a powerful and riveting presence in Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Company's Secret Passions." He has danced with the company since 1984 and serves as a rehearsal director and assistant to Mr. Jones, working on repertoire and outside choreography projects. Recently, Sean assisted Mr. Jones in choreographing Houston Grand Opera and Glyndebourne Festival Opera's production of New Year in which Sean also danced the role of the Shamian. Sean is an adjunct faculty member of the Roger Williams College dance department where he has made and presented his own work and the collaborative duet choreography he enjoys making with Amy Pizz.

LAWRENCE GOLDHUBER (Dancer/Actor) first danced professionally in 1983, working with Danny Sloan on a project for Lotus 1-2-3. More recently, he appeared in the Houston Grand Opera and Glyndebourne Festival Opera premiere productions of Sir Michael Tippett's New Year, under the direction of Sir Peter Hall. He has performed with Ruby Shing in both Inseparable Language at the Institute of Contemporary Art in London and as Mr. Zane's "in the works" project "Theatrical in the World." Lawrence also plans to return to his home country of Germany this summer to both dance and teach at the University of Munich. He has also taught and choreographed for Yale University Education Center and for the Arts and Special Performances Audience Program, Teen to Teen, in Newark, New Jersey. He recently assisted Mr. Jones in choreographing The Three Sons of Munich Biennale. Mr. Hubbard also directed Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co. in 1985.

HEIDI LATSKY (Dancer), a native of Minnesota, is the recipient of two government grants for her choreography which she has shown in Canada, in the Caribbean, and in New York City. She has danced with various New York choreographers, most recently Kalman, Ruby Shing, and Paul Byrd. She has also danced in numerous nontraditional and television shows, including "Fame." Ms. Latisky also worked under the direction of Sir Peter Hall in the premiere of Sir Michael Tippett's opera, New Year. Ms. Latisky would like to give a special thank you to Jeffrey Ashton and Jean Claude West. This is Ms. Latisky's third season with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co.

BETSY MCCRAKEEN (Dancer) first began performing with the Dallas Metropolitan Ballet. She started her modern training with the Arts Magnet High School in Dallas, Texas and received a scholarship to attend the University of Texas in Austin. In the summer of 1986, she came to New York and began working with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co. Recently, Betsy worked in the Sir Peter Hall production of Sir Michael Tippett's New Year.

MAYA SAFFRIN (Dancer) was born in Seattle, Washington. She began dancing in college at the University of Washington, then later attended Cornish Institute where she received her B.F.A. Since moving to New York City in 1985, she has performed with Milton Myers, the Clive Thompson Dance Co, the Murray Spalding Dance Theater, Deju Vu Dance Theater, and Ballet Hispanico. Maya has been a member of Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co. since November, 1989.

ANDREA E. WOODS (Dancer) is a native of Philadelphia where she began her dance training with Jean Williams at Germantown Dance Theater. She continued her education and graduated magna cum laude from Adelphi University. Ms. Woods has formerly danced with Clive Thompson, Ken Williams, and Sacko choreography dance companies. This is her first season with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co.

R. JUSTICE ALLEN (Guest Artist) is an actor, songwriter, arranger, rapper, and playwright from Brooklyn, New York. A graduate of New York City Street Theater, where he studied under George Lee Miles, Justice recently performed with Ujamaa Black Theater, S.F.L. Productions, and Doredo Garland Productions. In addition, Justice is seen in the film Mr. Betters Eyes, as well as a number of music videos. His most noted performance was in the Niagara Conservancy production of Waiting for Godot.

JOHN COWLES (Guest Artist) grew up in Des Moines and Minneapolis and was graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy and Harvard College. After the Korean War, he spent 30 years with the Minneapolis Star and Tribune and also served as a director of the Associated Press and member of the Pulitzer Board at Columbia University. During the sixties, Mr. Cowles was a director for the Walker Art Center and first president of the Minneapolis Jazz Festival Foundation. In the late seventies, he helped get a covered stadium built in downtown Mankato for the Minnesota Twins and Vikings. More recently, he became an IDEO-certified aerobic dance instructor teaching at the Sweatshop in St. Paul. He and Sage Cowles were married in 1952.

SAGE COWLES (Guest Artist) studied dance at the School of American Ballet with Hanya Holm, and with Margaret H Tuttle at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. She appeared on the PBS Special "Blows Away" (1970, 1971, 1975) and on the early TV show, "Lucky Strike Hit Parade." Between 1977-85, she collaborated with filmmaker Molly Davies to make six film/performances.

"Justice helped me express my feelings with dance!" We can send flowers nationwide via FTD.

For all those special occasions...
Let Flowers help you express your feelings with flowers!
We can send flowers nationwide via FTD.

Every Bloomin' Thing, Inc.
114 South Clinton • Iowa City, Iowa • (319) 351-7242
pieces which toured in the United States and Europe. Her work has been partially funded by grants from the NEA and the Jerome Robbins Foundation. Over the years Ms. Cowles was active in Planned Parenthood and other civil rights issues. Currently, she teaches aero dance, a competitive walker, and is involved in holistic disciplines such as Tai Chi Ch’uun and Shiatsu Releasing Techniques. She and John Cowles have four children and three grandchildren, and, when not touring with this project, live in Minnesota.

NILES FORD (Guest Artist) started his training at Philadelphia Dance Company Pennsylvania Ballet. Mr. Ford received his B.F.A. from University of the Arts in Philadelphia. He has performed with Boston Ballet, Dance Theater of Harlem Workshop Ensemble, Impetus, and Rod Rodgers Dance Company. This is Mr. Ford’s first tour with Bill T. Jones/Aric Zane & Co.

ANDREA E. SMITH (Guest Artist) "Any way the wind blows is cool with me."

ANN T. GREENE (Text) is a fiction writer and librettist. Her short stories have appeared in Galatea and her poetry is anthologized in Erotique: Nore and Turbulence and Tenderness. Her operas include Salubry with composer Chambless Giobbi and The Mother of Three Sons with composer Leon Jenkins and director/choreographer Bill T. Jones. She wrote the dance libretto, Orpheus and Eurydice for choreographer Blondell Cunnings.

JULIUS HEMPHILL SEXTET

JULIUS HEMPHILL, (Saxophonist and Composer) was born in 1938. He split his attention between music and sports while growing up in the fertile musical environment of Fort Worth, Texas. He picked up experience playing in blues bands and jazz groups and began focusing on his musical career to earnest after moving to St. Louis in 1966, following an Army stint.

Two years later, he played an integral role in developing the Black Artists Group, an interdisciplinary collective that also included future World Saxophone Quartet members Oliver Lake (alto) and Hamlet Bluiett (tenor). Hemphill recorded two albums, Dagon A.D. and Goon Bitches in the early 1970s that were later released on the Arista/Freeedom label.

He moved to New York in 1973, and in 1976, as a founding member and principal composer/arranger for the World Saxophone Quartet (also including David Murray, Oliver Lake, and Hamlet Bluiett), Hemphill continued his dance on the edge of free jazz. Now in its twelfth season, the WSO has performed in almost every major jazz festival and hall in North America and Europe, including the Berlin, Montreal, Kool, Rome, Paris, Don Haug (North Sea), and Warsaw. The World Saxophone Quartet plays Drake Sheffield and Dances and Ballads, recorded for Elektra/Nonesuch, and their more recent album Rhythm & Illsion, recorded for Elektra/Musician, all received unanimous acclaim both here and abroad.

Hemphill is a prodigious composer and is working concurrently on several commissions one destined for international exposure in his work for the choreographer, Bill T. Jones, and featuring the Julius Hemphill Sextet. In addition, there are two orchestral pieces in the works, along with several compositions for smaller ensembles. He has just completed the music for Anshornan, a music theater piece written by Paul Carter Harrison, performed at Bates College in Lewiston, Maine during February and March, 1990, and is now available for production by national theater companies.

Hemphill’s Tangos Torogos: A Saxophone Tetralogy received its world premiere at the 1990 Jazz Festival in Washington, D.C. in September, 1989 and received its New York premiere in December, 1990 at the Apollo Theater. The opera, developed from earlier collaborations with District Curators and Mulirke Robert Elliott, is loosely based on the history of the Bohemia Caverns jazz club from 1943-1968. Built exclusively on instrumental music and featuring the Julius Hemphill Sextet, the opera includes dancers, actors, and slide projections.

Additional national and international tours are planned for Julius Hemphill Big Band, and a book of his big band arrangements is scheduled to hit the market in the fall of 1990.

A video of Julius Hemphill’s life and music is being scheduled for production in the spring of 1991, along with the attendant personal interviews and appearances.

CARL GRUBBS (Saxophonist) is a native of Philadelphia. He received extensive early musical training from John Coltrane, who was married to his cousin Naima, and through his family, he was close to many of the history-making jazz musicians in the 1950s and 60s. With his brother Earl Grubbs (also a saxophonist), he formed the quintet The Visitors, which recorded on the Mose label in the early 1970s. He conducts regular performance-demonstrations on jazz in the D.C. public schools, music workshops for handicapped people, and other educational programs. He also tours with the Carl Grubbs Quartet and the East-West Quartet, playing a blend of jazz and Indian classical music.

MARTY EHRICH (Saxophonist) performed on his first album, Under the Sun (1972), with the Human Arts Ensemble while still in high school in St. Louis. His versatility and fluency in many contemporary styles has led to collaborations with two generations of creative musicians. As an Afro-American music major at the New England Conservatory of Music, Marty studied and performed with Jaki Byard, George Russell, Gunther Schuller, and Ran Blake. It was during this time that he began close collaborations with Michael Gregory Jackson, Jerome Harris, and Stan Strickland.

Since arriving in New York in 1978, Marty has performed in great demand as an improvising and multi-reed player, performing throughout the United States and Europe with Muhir Richard Abrams, Barry Alszec, Anthony Braxton, John Carter, Anthony Davis, Jaki Jeannotte, Fedrick Golda, Zoro Hamilton, Julius Hemphill, Leroy Jenkins, Dutch Morris, Bobby Previte, John Zorn, and many others. He is known for his inventiveness and lyserics and compositions with broad scope, Marty has received international critical acclaim as a composer and ensemble leader.

JAMES CARTER (Timor Saxophonist) is the youngest member of the Julius Hemphill Sextet. He has also performed with the Wynton Marsalis Band at the Detroit/Montreux Jazz Festival, with Lester Bowie at Carlos I New York, with Frank Lowe during the New York JVC Jazz Festival, and has toured with Marcus Belgrave and Bill McFarland in Europe.

James is a graduate of Detroit’s Northwestern High School’s legendary jazz band, and he can be heard on Bird-Treme-Sco Nose LP. He credits his teacher and mentor, Dominick Washington, head of Bird-Treme-Sco, with being the singular most significant influence and inspiration in his career.

Iowa City Tennis & Fitness Center
2400 North Dodge • 351-5683
Your first visit is free!
pieces which toured in the United States and Europe. Her work has been partially funded by grants from the NEA and the Jerome Robbins Foundation. Over the years Ms. Cowles was active in Planned Parenthood and other civil rights issues. Currently, she teaches aerobics, dance, is a competitive walker, and is interested in holistic disciplines such as Tai Chi Chuan and Stretching and Release Techniques. She and John Cowles have four children and three grandchildren, and when not touring with this project, live in Minnesota.

NILES FORD (Guest Artist) started his training at Philadelphia Dance Company Pennsylvania Ballet. Mr. Ford received his B.F.A. from University of the Arts in Philadelphia. He has performed with Boston Ballet, Dance Theater of Harlem Workshop Ensemble, Impetus, and Rod Rodgers Dance Company. This is Mr. Ford’s first tour with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co.

ANDREA E. SMITH (Guest Artist) “Any way the wind blows is cool with me.”

ANN T. GREENE (Text) is a fiction writer and librettist. Her short stories have appeared in Callaloo and her poetry is anthologized in Érotik: Noire and Turbulence and Tenderness. Her opera includes Selu with composer Clamsius Giobbi and The Mother of Three Sons with composer Leroy Jenkins and director and choreographer Bill T. Jones. She wrote the dance libretto, Ophelias and Eurypylus for choreographer Blondell Cinnamons.

JULIUS HEMPHILL SIXTET

JULIUS HEMPHILL, (Saxophonist and Composer) was born in 1938. He split his attention between music and sports while growing up in the fertile musical environment of For Worth, Texas. He picked up experience playing in blues bands and jazz groups and began focusing on his musical career to earnest after moving to St. Louis in 1966, following an Army stint.

Two years later, he played an integral role in developing the Black Artists Group, an interdisciplinary collective that also included future World Saxophone Quartet members Oliver Lake (alto) and Hamlet Buliet (drums). Hemphill recorded two albums, Dogon A.D. and Coon Blues in the early 1970s that were later released on the Arista Freedom label.

He moved to New York in 1973, and in 1976, as a founding member and principal composer/arranger for the World Saxophone Quartet (also including David Murray, Oliver Lake, and Hamlet Buliet), Hemphill continued his dance on the edge of free jazz. Now in its twelfth season, the WSO has performed in almost every major jazz festival and band in North America and Europe, including the Berlin, Montreal, Kool, Rome, Paris, Den Haag (North Sea), and Warsaw Festivals. The World Saxophone Quartet Plays Duke Ellington and Dances and Ballads, recorded for Elektra/Nonessence, and their more recent album Rhymes & Blues, recorded for the Elektra/Musician, all received unanimous acclaim both here and abroad.

Hemphill is a prodigious composer and is working concurrently on several commissions: one destined for international exposure in his work for the choreographer, Bill T. Jones, and featuring the Julius Hemphill Sextet. In addition, there are two orchestral pieces in the works, along with several compositions for smaller ensembles. He has just completed the music for Anarchoman, a music theater piece written by Paul Carter Harrison. Anarchoman was workshopped and performed at Bates College in Lewiston, Maine during February and March, 1990, and is now available for production by national theater companies.

Hemphill’s Longue Tongues: A Saxophone Opera received its world premiere and performance at Washington, D.C. in September, 1989 and received its New York premiere in December, 1990 at the Apollo Theatre. The opera, developed from earlier collaborations with District Carolers and Mulike Robert Elliott, is loosely based on the history of the Bohemia Caverns jazz club from 1943-1968. Built exclusively on instrumental music and featuring the Julius Hemphill Sextet, the opera includes dancers, actors, and slide projections.

Additional national and international tours are planned for Julius Hemphill Big Band, and a book of his big band arrangements is scheduled to hit the market in the fall of 1990.

A video of Julius Hemphill’s life and music is being scheduled for production in the spring of 1991, along with the attendant personal interviews and appearances.

CARL GRUBBS (Saxophonist) is a native of Philadelphia. He received extensive early musical training from John Coltrane, who was married to his cousin Naima, and through his family, he was close to many of the history-making jazz musicians in the 1950s and 60s. With his brother Earl Grubbs (also a saxophonist), he formed the quintet The Visitors, which recorded on the Mose label in the early 1970s. He conducts regular performance-demonstrations on jazz in the D.C. public schools, music workshops for handicapped people, and other educational programs. He also tours with the Carl Grubbs Quintet and the East-West Quartet, playing a blend of jazz and Indian classical music.

MARTY EHRHICH (Saxophonist) performed on his first album, Under the Sun (1972), with the Human Arts Ensemble while still in high school in St. Louis. His versatility and fluency in many contemporary styles has led to collaborations with two generations of creative musicians. As an Afro-American music major at the New England Conservatory of Music, Marty studied and performed with Juki Brand, George Russell, Gunther Schuller, and Ran Blake. It was during this time that he began close collaborations with Michael Gregory Jackson, Jerome Harris, and Stan Strickland.

Since arriving in New York in 1978, Marty has performed in great demand as an improvising multi-reed player, performing throughout the United States and Europe with Muhle Richard Abrams, Barry Altschul, Anthony Braxton, John Carter, Anthony Davis, Jack DeJohnette, Fredrick Goldia, Chico Hamilton, Julius Hemphill, Leroy Jenkins, Butch Morris, Bobby Previte, John Zorn, and many Danish ensembles. He is known for his inventiveness and lyricism and compositions with broad scope, Marty has received international critical acclaim as a composer and ensemble leader.

JAMES CARTER (Timpani Saxophonist) is the youngest member of the Julius Hemphill Sextet. He has also performed with the Wynton Marsalis Band at the Detroit-Montreux Jazz Festival, with Lester Bowie at Catskill I New York, with Frank Low during the New York's Jazz Festival, and has toured with Marcus Belgrave and Bill McFarland in Europe.

James is a graduate of Detroit’s Northwestern High School’s legendary jazz band, and he can be heard on the Bird-Tree-Sco New LP. He credits his teacher and mentor, Donald Washington, head of Bird-Tree-Sco, with being the singular most significant influence and inspiration in his career.

Iowa City Tennis & Fitness Center
2400 North Dodge • 351-5683
Your first visit is free!
ANDREW WHITE (Tenor Saxophonist), composer, publisher, and multi-instrumentalist, is the most voluminously self-produced artist in the history of jazz. Through his company, Andrew’s Musical Enterprises, Inc., of Washington, D.C., established in 1971, he has singlehandedly self-produced over 1,150 products currently marketed throughout the world.

With his publications, The Works of John Coltrane, 421 Coltrane improvisations and his book on Coltrane’s music, Trane ‘n Me, White has earned a reputation as the world's leading authority on the music of John Coltrane, and in the field of music education he has been named “The Keeper of the Trane.”

Also a very prolific composer, his latest published work, A Jazz Concerto For Saxophone Quartet, was given its world premiere performance by the Amherst Saxophone Quartet on March 25, 1990, at Buffalo State College in Buffalo, New York.

KENNY BERGER (Baritone Saxophonist) also performs on all other saxophones, clarinet, bass clarinet, flutes, and alto flute. His performance credits include such jazz greats as the National Jazz Ensemble, Thad Jones/Mel Lewis Orchestra, Duke Ellington Orchestra, Duke Pearson Big Band, Bill Holman Band, Alphonso-Tabackin Orchestra, Howard McGhee, Dizzy Gillespie, Phil Woods, Mel Tormé, Jon Lucien, Elvin Jones, Barry M施肥al, Gelly Mulligan, Art Farmer, and many others. Big Three Music published his arrangement of Fats Waller’s “Jitterbug Waltz,” and Kenny frequently makes arrangements for Art Farmer, Gelly Mulligan, Pat Martino, Tommy Flanagan, Carrie Smith, The Duke’s Men, Radio City Music Hall, Phil Woods, Dizzy Gillespie United Nations Bank, and David Liebman.

In addition to several years of private teaching in New York, Kenny has also participated as soloist with the Thad Jones/Mel Lewis Orchestra and National Jazz Ensemble in clinics across the country, and he has taught arranging and improvisation at the University of Illinois.

GREGORY BAINE (Production Stage Manager/Lighting Director) has been active in dance production and stage management, as well as audio and video recording, since 1971. He has developed his theater acumen with and for a varied range of dance, music, video, theater artists, and production projects. Currently, along with his modern dance touring itinerary, Greg is developing a production profile within the field of sacred arts through his relationship with The Vine Dance Theater (a liturgical dance company).

In addition to touring as stage manager for the Nikolais Dance Theater and the Murray Louis Dance Company, Greg has worked as technical director for the American Dance Asylum and for the Murray Louis Dance Company from 1978-86, when he joined Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co. as production stage manager.

JAY HORNE (Technical Director) has a communication theater degree from Temple University, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He was born in Brooklyn, New York. He has worked both nationally and internationally in commercials, television, film, and photography.

Arts Outreach

Arts Outreach sends student and faculty artists from the Iowa Center for the Arts to schools and communities throughout the state, as well as offering a variety of performances and educational opportunities on the campus. Activities can be arranged for special populations. For information about program services, contact Arts Outreach, 319/335-2694.

MONICA WHITE-BURRELL (Assistant Stage Manager) began production work in San Francisco. She worked as stage manager for Danny Duncan, Alcazar Theater, and Bayview Opera House. Monica has worked with various dance companies including Cultural Odyssey and Tumbleweed. Since arriving in New York, she has studied dance lighting with Peter Kolecky and worked with such artists as Marie Alba, Arthur Aviles, and Jody Oberfelder Riem. This is her third season with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co.

HUCK SNYDER (Set and Costume Designer) is a visual artist and set designer, living and working in New York City. His paintings and installations have been exhibited internationally with recent shows at Sibiu department store in Shihuya, Tokyo and at Sibiu Gallery, Tokyo.

KOKYO KONDO. He is currently represented by Rumscale Gallery, New York City. His theater sets and installations have won him much acclaim, including a 1983 Bears Award and a 1988 Obie Award for sustained excellence of scenic design. He was a 1997 American Theater Wing Award nominee for sets and costumes for his own art performance production, Circus. He was nominated again in 1988 for his sets for John Kelly’s Find My Way Home. Mr. Snyder is a 1989 Andy Warhol Foundation grant recipient, awarded to create the costumes for Last Supper at Uncle Tom’s Cabin/The Promised Land.

LONNÉ MORETON (Rehearsal Director) began with professional ballroom dancing, Lonné’s performing experiences include major ballet, modern, and jazz companies. He holds a B.A. in drama from San Jose State University and an M.F.A. in dance from New York University. Mr. Moreton’s faculty positions have been the Alvin Alley Dance Center, Zena Pommet Dance Institute, The Joffrey Ballet School, Mary Anthony Dance Studio, and STEPS/N.Y.C.

Choreographic commissions have included Dennis Wayne’s Dancers, Mary Anthony Dance Theatre, Manhattan Opera, Kaimuki Dance Theater (Hawaii), Ulica Dance Works, and J&Co. and Dancers. Lonné has served as ballet master and rehearsal director for Dennis Wayne’s Dancers, Corning Dances & Company, Joyce Trisler’s Danscompany, and Joyce Express. This is his first season with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co.

ROBERT WIERZEL (Lighting Designer) has worked with artists from diverse disciplines and backgrounds, in theater, dance, new music, and opera. He has worked with Philip Glass (Hydrogen Jukebox and 1000 Airplanes on the Roof), artist Robert Longo (Dream Jamboree), Italian clown Leo Bassi (Nino’s Last Folly), Glimmer Glass Opera, Munich Biennale International Festival (The Mother of Three Sons), and musicians Lou Reed and John Cale (Songs for Drella). He also has worked with J. Fregalette-Jansen Dance, Hubbard St. Dance, and choreographer Margo Sappington. Mr. Wierzel’s the theater work includes productions at Center State, Hartford Stage, A.R.T., Berkeley Repertory, Los Angeles Theatre Center, Portland Stage, and New Mexico Repertory, among others. In New York, Mr. Wierzel’s work has been seen at the Joyce, New York Shakespeare Festival/Public Theatre, and C.S.G. Repertory.

ENJOY THE VIEW FROM THE BAY.

Windowscaping uses unique Pella® window ideas to enhance your home. When you windowscrape with our bay window, you’ll brighten up your home by getting a room with a view. And an exceptional view isn’t all you get.

You also get the free advice of a Pella window expert who can help you with all your building, remodeling and replacement ideas. They tell you everything you need to know. Like how our bay window not only increases the size of a room, but also reduces energy costs.

For a nice change of scenery, stop by The Pella Window Store® and talk to one of our experts about Windowscaping. You’ll soon see windows in a whole new light.

BUILT TO IMPOSSIBLY HIGH STANDARDS. OUR OWN!

The Pella Window Store®
2857 Mt. Vernon Rd. SE
Cedar Rapids, IA 52403
(319) 366-6101
(319) 351-7523
ANDREW WHITE (Tener Saxophonist), composer, performer, and multi-instrumentalist, is the most voluminously self-produced artist in the history of jazz. Through his company, Andrew’s Musical Enterprises, Inc., of Washington, D.C., established in 1971, he has singlehandedly self-produced over 1,150 products currently marketed throughout the world.

With his publications, The Works of John Coltrane, 421 Coltrane improvisations and his book on Coltrane’s music, Trane ‘n Me, White has earned a reputation as the world’s authority on the leadership of music of John Coltrane, and in the field of music education he has been named “The Keeper of the Trane.”

Also a very prolific composer, his latest published work, A Jazz Concerto For Saxophone Quartet, was given its world premiere performance by the Antheart Saxophone Quartet on March 25, 1990, at Buffalo State College in Buffalo, New York.

KENNY BERGER (Baritone Saxophonist) also performs on all other saxophones, clarinet, bass clarinet, flute, and alto flute. His performance credits include such jazz greats as the National Jazz Ensemble, Thad Jones/Mel Lewis Orchestra, Duke Ellington Orchestra, Duke Pearson Big Band, Bill Holman Band, Akosthi/Tavakian Orchestra, Howard McCoy, Dizzy Gillespie, Phil Woods, Mel Tormè, Jon Lucien, Elvin Jones, Barry Arbuck, Gerry Mulligan, Art Farmer, and many others.

Big Three Music published his arrangement of Fats Waller’s “Jitterbug Waltz,” and Kenny frequently makes

In addition to several years of private teaching in New York, Kenny has also participated as soloist with the Third Jones/Mel Lewis Orchestra and National Jazz Ensemble in clinics across the country, and he has taught arranging and improvisation at the University of Illinois.

GREGORY BAIN (Production Stage Manager/Lighting Director) has been active in dance production and stage management, as well as audio and video recording, since 1971. He has developed his theater artsistry with and for a varied range of dance, music, video, theater artists, and production projects. Currently, along with his modern dance touring itinerary, Greg is developing a production profile within the field of sacred arts through his relationship with The Vine Dance Theater (a liturgical dance company). In addition to touring as stage manager for the Nikolais Dance Theater and the Murray Louis Dance Company, Greg has worked as a technical manager for the American Dance Asylum and for the Murray Louis Dance Company from 1978-86, when he joined Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co. as production stage manager.

JAY HORNE (Technical Director) has a communication theater degree from Temple University, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He was born in Brooklyn, New York. He has worked both nationally and internationally in commercials, television, film, and photography.

Arts Outreach

Arts Outreach sends student and faculty artists from the Iowa Center for the Arts to schools and communities throughout the state, as well as offering a variety of performances and educational opportunities on the campus. Activities can be arranged for special populations, for information about program services, contact Arts Outreach, 319/335-2694.

MONICA WHITE-BURRELL (Assistant Stage Manager) began production work in San Francisco. She worked as stage manager for Danny Duncan, Alcazar Theater, and Bayview Opera House. Monica has worked with various dance companies including Cultural Odyssey and Tumble Weed. Since arriving in New York, she has studied dance lighting with Peter Kolecky and worked with such artists as Marie Alba, Arthur Aviles, and Jocy Oberfelder Rock. This is her third season with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co.

HUCK SNYDER (Set and Costume Designer) is a visual artist and set designer, living and working in New York City. His paintings and installations have been exhibited internationally with recent shows at Selbu department store in Shibuya, Tokyo and at Selbu Gallery, Tokyo. He is currently represented by Rumsally Gallery, New York City. His theater sets and installations have won him much acclaim, including a 1985 Jessie Award and a 1988 Obie Award for sustained excellence of scenic design. He was a 1997 American Theater Wing Award nominee for sets and costumes for his own art performance production, Circus. He was nominated again in 1988 for his sets for John Kelly’s Find My Way Home. Mr. Snyder is a 1989 Andy Warhol Foundation grant recipient, awarded to create the costumes for Last Supper at Uncle Tom’s Cabin/The Promised Land.

LONNIE MORETON (Rehearsal Director) begins with professional ballroom dancing, Lonnie’s performing experiences include major ballet, modern, and jazz companies. He holds a B.A. in drama from San Jose State University and an M.F.A. in dance from New York University. Mr. Moreton’s faculty positions have been the Alvin Alley Dance Center, Zena Pommett Dance Institute, The Joffrey Ballet School, Mary Anthony Dance Studio, and STEPS/N.Y.C. Choreographic commissions have included Dennis Wayne’s Dancers, Mary Anthony Dance Theater, Manhattan Opera, Kaimuki Dance Theatre (Hawaii), Ulica Dance Works, and Jo Co. and Dancers. Lonnie has served as ballet master and rehearsal director for Dennis Wayne’s Dancers, Corning Dances & Company, Joyce Theater’s Danscompany, and Dance Express. This is his first season with Bill T. Jones/Arnie Zane & Co.

ROBERT WIERZEL (Lighting Designer) has worked with artists from diverse disciplines and backgrounds, in theater, dance, new music, and opera. He has worked with Alain Glass (Hydrogen Jukebox and 1000 Airplanes on the Roof), artist Robert Longo (Dream Jamboree), Italian chansonnier Leo Batti (Nino’s Last Folly), Glimmer Glass Opera, Munich Biennale International Festival (The Mother of Three Sons), and musicians Lou Reed and John Cale (Songs for Drella). He also has worked with J. Fregalette-Jansen Dance, Hubbard St. Dance, and choreographer Margo Sappington. Mr. Wierzel’s theater work has been seen in productions at Center State, Hartford Stage, A.R.T., Berkeley Repertory, Los Angeles Theatre Center, Portland Stage, and New Mexico Repertory, among others. In New York, Mr. Wierzel’s work has been seen at the Joyce, New York Shakespeare Festival/Public Theatre, and C.S.G. Repertory.

ENJOY THE VIEW FROM THE BAY.

Windowscaping uses unique Pella® window ideas to enhance your home. When you windowscape with our bay window, you'll brighten up your home by getting a room with a view. And an exceptional view isn't all you get.

You also get the free advice of a Pella window expert who can help you with all your building, remodeling and replacement ideas. They tell you everything you need to know. Like how our bay window not only increases the size of a room, but also reduces energy costs.

For a nice change of scenery, stop by The Pella Window Store® and talk to one of our experts about Windowscaping. You'll soon see windows in a whole new light.

BUILT TO IMPOSSIBLY HIGH STANDARDS. OUR OWN.

The Pella Window Store®

2857 Mt. Vernon Rd. SE
Cedar Rapids, IA 52403
(319) 366-6010

The Pella Window Store®

Highway 6 West
Corallis, IA 52241
(319) 351-7523

January 4 - March 15
KSUI-FM, 91.7
Fridays at 6:30 p.m.

Presenting a cross-section of musical cultures in ten fast-paced programs.
Bill T. Jones—The Iowa Connection

by Renata E. Sack

It was in the summer of 1979 when I met Bill T. Jones. Cedar Arts Forum’s interest in him had been awakened by a package of publicity material on a number of young artists possibly available for a residency. A very serious and pensive face peered out at us from Bill T. Jones’ photo. The image was alive; his eyes looked deep into our very soul, asking probing questions. Do you know how serious this is? Do you know who you are? Do you understand what I am trying to find out?

The following summer, I attended a three-day Affiliate Artist conference on the Sarah Lawrence College campus in New York. This was my chance to see Bill T. Jones perform. But due to a last minute technical adjustment, switching the performance spaces for two dancers, I found myself seated in the wrong audience, missing my chance to “check out” Bill T. Jones.

The next morning, as the last offering of the conference, Bill T. Jones addressed the audience, speaking to us as the representative of the artists present. I don’t remember what he said, but I do remember with every nerve of my senses how he said what he had to tell us. He spoke with unequivocal assurance. He radiated intelligence and conviction, packaged in disarming charm.

As I walked back from the lecture hall to the dormitory, on the narrow path through the woods, Bill T. Jones was ahead of me. In that impulsion, I ran to catch up with him and tapped him on the shoulder. He turned, and I prompted, “I am Renata Sack. I wanted to ask you if you would be interested in doing a residency with us, Cedar Arts Forum, in Iowa?” He smiled, open and warm, and with unhurried and deliberate speech he responded, “Yeah... , “looking at me with piercing scrutiny, “that would be possible, but Iowa? Why would it have to be Iowa?” “Well, I laughed, “of course it must be in Iowa. Waterloo, Iowa, that’s where we are, that’s where our work is.” And I proceeded to give him, in quick, short sentences, a colorful image of who we are and what Cedar Arts Forum tries to accomplish. He paused for a moment and said: “Well, let’s talk about it, can you call me?”

And so Bill T. Jones, energetically brilliant and unquestioningly searching, brought to us, the unknowing, pure, and innocent in matters of the artistic avant-garde, his probing and daring post-modern dance.

He was full of tempest and storm; he was alive and electric; and, although outwardly supple and calm, his mind was games and observing, absorbing every utterance and attitude, personalities and cityscape.

After only five days in our community, Bill T. Jones gave his first formal performance. It was his introduction to us and our introduction to him, both sides hesitant and unsure, not knowing what to expect.

I, responsible for the “success” of this happening, the bridge between artist and community, was filled with nervous suspense like a child on Christmas Eve. I had never seen Bill T. Jones perform, and the only basis for our decision to invite him to Iowa was my intuitive belief in him as an artist and a person.

Ten years ago in the middle of Iowa, a Black dancer was quite a daring and certainly unknown being. So how would the audience, made up of mostly traditional arts patrons, react and receive Bill T. Jones?

Bill T. Jones at that time incorporated storytelling into his performance. He had an extraordinary ability to bring together thought and language, movement, sound and space, making them one, and making a statement of otherworldly dimension. He could translate his innermost intellect and private experience into a physical image. With his performance that night, he presented a narration of his first few days in the community, interweaving events, character studies, and his analysis of the place with choreography and poetry, conjuring up for his audience a multitude of mythical images. Maybe not everyone understood what he had to say, but everyone was spellbound, touched, and full of acknowledgment of this very new experience.

Dozens of performances followed during the eight-week residency with Cedar Arts Forum. Each one was different, each one was influenced by the physical environment, the partnering with individual musicians and community dancers, the make-up of the audience, and the aura of the moment.

Octogenarians of Scandinavian blood and young men, troubled by the demands of life and lacking motivation, responded with the same genuine admiration to the young dancer’s artistry.

Watching Bill T. Jones create is an exhilarating opportunity. His complex intelligence sees and listens, hears and shapes, moves and observes, translating almost instantaneously the accumulating particles into a living story.

He has an astute ability to find and invite just the perfect writer and musician, the most appropriate voice and dancer, the best lighting and set builder. This collaboration of great individual talents brings to the total performance an extraordinary punch.

Bill T. Jones never shies away from taking risks. Not only is he willing to stretch himself to the limits, he involves other people who are not necessarily professionals, but whom he empowers with unerring trust so that their non-traditional involvement brings to his work a unique and personal emphasis.

These quotes perhaps summarize how Bill T. Jones’ art elicits similar reaction in vastly different audiences.

“Just when you’re being overtaken by one of those periodic bouts of despair, thinking you may never see anything original, disturbing and deep in contemporary dance ever again, along comes someone like Bill T. Jones…” wrote Alan M. Kriegerman in the Washington Post. The performance at the Kennedy Center for which this review was written included Stephan F. It, which had premiered at the Stayer Wood Theater as part of Cedar Arts Forum’s residency, three weeks earlier.

And a letter of appreciation by a Black Hawk County citizen said, “...Many of us—I suppose like any cross section of our society—don’t know a lot about the arts...but had little exposure to it. So if you feel frustrated by our lack of ‘involvement,’ please understand and be proud and rewarded knowing you really made our minds work.” Connie Frankhauser, Cedar Falls.

Renata E. Sack is executive director of the Cedar Arts Forum, the arts council serving Black Hawk County and neighboring counties.

For Future Reference

Doors to the Hancher lobby and the Cafe open 45 minutes before curtain time. Doors to the seating area open 30 minutes before curtain time. Tours of the auditorium are conducted at 2:00 p.m. each Sunday and Wednesday, except during University vacation periods. Tours leave from the box office lobby. For special group tours, call 319/335-1130, allowing a week’s advance notice.

Parking is free in the University lots surrounding Hancher. Overflow traffic may park in designated parking areas in City Park, but parking on the grass in City Park is prohibited.
Bill T. Jones—The Iowa Connection

by Renata E. Sack

It was in the summer of 1979 when I met Bill T. Jones. Cedar Arts Forum's interest in him had been awakened by a package of publicity material on a number of young artists possibly available for a residency. A very serious and pensive face peered out at us from Bill T. Jones’ photo. The image was alive; his eyes looked deep into our very soul, asking probing questions. Do you know how serious this is? Do you know who you are? Do you understand what I am trying to find out?

The following summer, I attended a three-day Affiliate Artist conference on the Sarah Lawrence College campus in New York. This was my chance to see Bill T. Jones perform. But due to a last lighting technical adjustment, switching the performance spaces for two dancers, I found myself seated in the “wrong” audience, missing my chance to “check out” Bill T. Jones.

The next morning, as the last offering of the conference, Bill T. Jones addressed the audience, speaking to us as the representatives of the artists present. I don’t remember what he said, but I do remember with every nerve of my senses how he said what he had to tell us. He spoke with unequivocal assuredness. He radiated intelligence and conviction, packaged in disarming charm.

As I walked back from the lecture hall to the dormitory, on the narrow path through the woods, Bill T. Jones was ahead of me. A dream impulse, I ran to catch up with him and tapped him on the shoulder. He turned, and I asked, “I am Renata Sack. I wanted to ask you if you would be interested in doing a residency with us, Cedar Arts Forum, in Iowa?” He smiled, open and warm, and with unburdened and deliberate speech he responded, “Yeah . . . “looking at me with piercing scrutiny, “that would be possible, but Iowa? Why would it have to be Iowa?” “Well, I laughed, “of course it must be in Iowa. Waterloo, Iowa, that’s where we are, that’s where our work is.”

And so Bill T. Jones, energetically brilliant and questioning, brought us to the unknown, pure, and innocent in matters of the artistic avant-garde, his probing and daring post-modern dance.

For Future Reference

Doors to the Hancher lobby and the Cafe open 45 minutes before curtain time. Doors to the seating area open 30 minutes before curtain time. Tours of the auditorium are conducted at 2:00 p.m. each Sunday and Wednesday, except during University vacation periods. Tours leave from the box office lobby. For special group tours, call 319/335-1130, allowing a week’s advance notice.

Parking is free in the University lots surrounding Hancher. Overflow traffic may park in designated parking areas in City Park, but parking on the grass in City Park is prohibited.
Adrian Piper: Art, Identity, and Racism

by Erin Barnes

From February 2 to March 17, 1990, The University of Iowa Museum of Art will present a selection of installations by the artist Adrian Piper in recognition of African-American History Month. The presentation of her installations is especially pertinent for this year, simply because she is Afro-American, but because her work directly addresses the issues of white supremacy and xenophobia within liberal white culture. In addition, her work raises serious questions about the art world's participation in maintaining the racist status quo of culture as a whole, as well as serious doubts regarding the arts' ability to rectify the situation.

Piper has consistently worked within the tradition of conceptual or performance art. In the late sixties, she studied at New York's School of Visual Arts and worked for the conceptual artist Sol LeWitt. By 1970, Piper's work took on the direction for which she is best known. Rather than be concerned exclusively with abstract theories of art, Piper began to use art works as a means to examine contemporary social issues, particularly mainstream culture's attitudes towards the socially and culturally disenfranchised.

The "Catalysis" series was designed to provoke a response in its audience. Piper's aim was to show the audience the danger of their own negative feelings and reactions to people different from themselves and, thus, open up the possibility of a positive change. For example, in Catalysis IV, she rode the Allen Street bus route in New York City with a red towel hanging out of her mouth (a prop that clearly identified her as socially "different") and had the event photographically documented. After the "Catalysis" series, Piper's work began to focus, more specifically, on the issue of racial difference in our society. One example was her series of so-called "reactive guerrilla performances," in which she passed out business cards to people who exhibited racist behavior. These cards included a text that read, Dear Friend, I am black. I am sure you did not realize this when you made/ laughed at/greed with that racist remark. Piper extended the card-giving into a series of what she called "meta-performances," in which a tape of her discussing the card-giving episodes with a white audience is presented to a mixed-race audience. The latter presentation was also taped to be extended into another performance.

These meta-performances and other performances and installations are especially important because they focus on the issue of racial identities. Fundamental to Piper's work is the idea that racial identities are imposed upon an individual by society to ensure the racial "purity" of mainstream culture and thus guarantee continued economic dominance by those in power. As a light-skinned black raised in Harlem and schooled in primarily white, private schools, Piper grew up with what she calls, in the text to her work Political Self-Portrait #2 (Race) (1978), not the "Black Experience" but the "Gray Experience." As Ken Johnson has noted in Being and Politics (Art in America, September, 1990), "Abused by a racist teacher at school, called "Paleface" by neighborhood kids in Harlem, accepted as exotic in art school... and exiled to graduate in a school closed by fellow students for the affirmative-action advantages her minority status supposedly allowed her, she was all her life made to feel ambivalent about her racial identity."

Piper identifies herself as caught in the dilemma in which white culture identifies her as "black," when she is to be excluded from the mainstream, or as "white," when her presence would not threaten those in power. As she points out in her video installation Cornered (1988), all of us, regardless of our assumed racial denotation, are caught in the same dilemma, since anyone who has any African ancestry can be legally defined as "black" in the United States. Thus, white culture's manipulation of racial identity affects all Americans, not only those of obvious African descent. In Cornered, Piper states, "So I choose to identify myself as black, whereas you do not, that's not just a special fact about me. It's a fact about us. It's our problem to solve. So how do you propose we solve it? What are you going to do?"

Piper believes that since overt racism is no longer socially permissible, it has taken on subtler, more insidious forms. Therefore, many of Piper's works are aimed at making politically liberal, white audiences, the very audience of most American museums. Cornered is one of many works that address "subtle racism" head on. It begins with Piper on the video screen. Since Piper is of light complexion, she announces to the viewer that she is black and continues to explain that, "If you feel that my being dark know that I'm not white is making an unnecessary fuss, you must feel that it is right and proper for me to pass for white... Now this kind of thinking presupposes a belief that it is inherently better to be identified as white." An American similar piece, Close to Home (which is included in the Museum of Art exhibition), consists of fifteen photographic panels of middle-class blacks accompanied by captions meant to force white audiences to examine their attitudes toward blacks. The viewers are asked whether or not they would feel comfortable with these questions hanging in their home, whether or not they count blacks among their friends, whether or not they have ever had sexual relations with a black person, etc.

Her works, however, are not only significant for their content. They also raise important questions about the institutional foundations of the art world, foundations which propagate, among many elements of Western culture, white supremacy, homophobia, misogyny, classism, etc. The underlying element of her work is her belief in art's power to effect social change. Piper has been praised for refusing to buy into connoisseurship, she has consciously avoided developing a recognizable formalist "style" and offering art works that are merely aesthetically pleasing. In so doing, she underscores the political content of her works. She seems to have chosen the venue for her installations and performances of the past decade quite well: liberal, educated whites tend to comprise the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena. But how powerful can her message be to the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is her arena.
Adrian Piper: Art, Identity, and Racism

by Erin Barnes

From February 2 to March 17, 2008, The University of Iowa Museum of Art will present a selection of installations by the artist Adrian Piper in recognition of African-American History Month. The presentation of her installations is especially pertinent for this year simply because she is Afro-American, but because her work directly addresses the issues of white supremacy and xenophobia within liberal white culture. In addition, her work raises serious questions about the art world's participation in maintaining the racist status quo of culture as a whole, as well as strong doubts regarding the arts' ability to rectify the situation.

Piper has consistently worked within the tradition of conceptual or performance art. In the late sixties, she studied at New York's School of Visual Arts and worked for the conceptual artist Sol LeWitt. By 1970, Piper's work took on the direction for which she is best known. Rather than be concerned exclusively with abstract theories of art, Piper began to use art works as a means to examine contemporary social issues, particularly mainstream culture's attitudes towards the socially and culturally disenfranchised. The "Catalysis" series was designed to provoke a response in its audience. Piper's aim was to show the audience the danger of their own negative feelings and reactions to people different from themselves and, thus, open up the possibility of a positive change. For example, in Catalysis IV, she rode the Allen Street bus route in New York City with a red towel hanging out of her mouth (a prop that clearly identified her as socially "different") and had the event photographically documented. After the "Catalysis" series, Piper's work began to focus, more specifically, on the issue of racial difference in our culture. One example was her series of so-called "reactive guerrilla performances," in which she passed business cards out to people who exhibited racist behavior. These cards included a text that read, "Dear Friend, I am black. I am sure you did not realize this when you made/laughed at/greeted with that racist remark." Piper extended the card-giving into a series of what she calls "meta-performances," in which a tape of her discussing the card-giving episodes with a white audience is presented to a mixed-race audience. The latter presentation was also taped to be extended into another performance.

These meta-performances and other performances and installations are especially important because they focus on the issue of racial identities. Fundamental to Piper's work is the idea that racial identities are imposed upon an individual by society to ensure the racial "purity" of mainstream culture and thus guarantee continued economic dominance by those in power. As a light-skinned black raised in Harlem and schooled in primarily white, private schools, Piper grew up with what she calls, in the text to her work Political Self-Portrait #2 (Racism) (1978), the "Black Experience" but the "Gray Experience." As Ken Johnson has noted in Being and Politics (Art in America, September, 1990), "Abused by a racist teacher at school, called "Paleface" by neighborhood kids in Harlem, accepted as exotic in art school... and evicted in graduate school..." and the affirmative-action advantages her minority status supposedly allowed her, she was all her life made to feel ambivalent about her racial identity. Piper identifies herself as caught in the dilemma in which white culture identifies her as "black," when she is to be excluded from the mainstream, or as "white," when her presence would not threaten those in power. As she points out in her video installation Cornered (1980), all of us, regardless of our assumed racial denomination, are caught in the same dilemma, since anyone who has any African ancestry can be legally defined as "black" in the United States. Thus, white culture's manipulation of racial identity affects all Americans, not only those of obvious African descent. In Cornered, Piper states, "So I choose to identify myself as black, whereas you do not, that's just not just a special fact about me. It's a fact about us. It's our problem to solve. So how do you propose we solve it? What are you going to do?"

Piper believes that since overt racism is no longer socially permissible, it has taken on subtler, more insidious forms. Therefore, many of Piper's works are aimed at exposing, politically and economically, the very audience of most American museums. Cornered is one of many works that address "subtle racism" head on. It begins with Piper on the video screen. Since Piper is of light complexion, she announces to the viewer that she is black and continues to explain that, "If you feel that my letting people know that I'm not white is making an unnecessary fuss, you must feel that it is right and proper for me to pass for white. Now this kind of thinking presupposes a belief that it is inherently better to be identified as white." American similar piece, Close to Home (which is included in the Museum of Art exhibition), consists of fifteen photographic panels of middle-class blacks accompanied by captions meant to force white audiences to examine their attitudes toward blacks. The viewers are asked whether or not they would feel comfortable with these questions hanging in their home, whether or not they count blacks among their friends, whether or not they have ever had sexual relations with a black person, etc.

Her works, however, are not only significant for their content. They also raise important questions about the institutional foundations of the art world, foundations which propagate, among many elements of Western culture, while supremacy, homophobia, misogyny, classism, etc. The underlying element of her work is her belief in art's power to enact social change. Piper has worked for refusing to buy into connoisseur- ship, she has consciously avoided developing a recognizable formal "style" and offering art works that are merely aesthetically pleasing. In so doing, she underscores the political content of her works. She seems to have chosen the venue for her installations and performances of the past decade quite well: liberal, educated whites tend to comprise the majority of museum patrons, and the museum is their arena. But how powerful can her message be within the structure of any art environment? First of all, one can ask whether or not "art experiences" really have the potential to accomplish her goals. Piper herself pondered this point in Cornered, when she admits that perhaps you will only "refuge the messages to the corner of your mind that you reserve for, um, interesting art experiences." More important, one could argue that art in an institution serves merely as culture's sanctioned "safety-valve," a function which, by relieving social pressure instead of changing society, allows the culture to proceed unaltered. This is of particular importance when one considers that Piper's works are being exhibited on the occasion of African-American History Month. The problem lies not in designating a specific time to honor a particular American cultural group that has been so greatly ignored for centuries, but in the fact that many United States museums program exhibitions concerning Afro-Americans only during January, to commemorate Martin Luther King's birthday, or February. Are we to consider racism in the arts and culture only during one-twelfth of the year? Does this kind of programming encourage us to "take our medicine" for a short time and be done with it? Regardless of programming, can we expect the arts to teach us anything when they function as a paper conscience? How can we get beyond the shared institutional basis of art and racism? This is the question with which Piper herself leaves us. "So how do you propose we solve it? What are you going to do?"

Erin Barnes serves as the assistant to the curator at the UI Museum of Art and is a doctoral candidate in the history of art at the University's Program for Modern Studies.
MUSEUM OF ART EXHIBITIONS

November 3-April 21
Art from the Willdness

MUSIC, THEATRE, AND DANCE

- February 4, Monday
  - Billy Taylor Trio
  - Lecture/Demonstration
  - 1:30 p.m.
  - Harper Hall
  - Music Building

- February 5, Tuesday
  - Billy Taylor Trio
  - UI students $15.00/$16.40/$18.50
  - Nonstudents $22.50/$20.80/$18.50
  - Hancher Auditorium

- February 6, Wednesday
  - West High Concert
  - Symphony Bands
  - 7:30 p.m.
  - Clapp Recital Hall

- February 7, Thursday
  - Medea
  - UI students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
  - Nonstudents $11.50
  - Mabie Theatre

- February 10, Sunday
  - Preacil School Concert
  - 5 p.m.
  - Hancher Auditorium

- February 11, Monday
  - Leonard Price
  - UI students $30.00/$32.40/$35.00
  - Nonstudents $50.00/$52.80/$55.00
  - Hancher Auditorium

- February 12, Tuesday
  - Paul Dresser Ensemble
  - 12:00 noon

- February 13, Wednesday
  - Medea
  - UI students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
  - Nonstudents $11.50
  - Mabie Theatre

- February 14, Thursday
  - Medea
  - UI students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
  - Nonstudents $11.50
  - Mabie Theatre

- February 15, Friday
  - Medea
  - UI students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
  - Nonstudents $11.50
  - Mabie Theatre

- February 16, Saturday
  - Symphony Band Concert
  - Hancher Auditorium

- February 17, Sunday
  - Hancher Auditorium

- February 19, Tuesday
  - Paul Dresser Ensemble
  - 12:00 noon

- February 20, Wednesday
  - Paul Dresser Ensemble
  - 12:00 noon

- February 21, Thursday
  - Paul Dresser Ensemble
  - 12:00 noon

- February 22, Friday
  - Paul Dresser Ensemble
  - 12:00 noon

- February 23, Saturday
  - Preacil School Concert
  - 5 p.m.
  - Hancher Auditorium

- February 24, Sunday
  - Preacil School Concert
  - 5 p.m.
  - Hancher Auditorium

Hancher Auditorium Information

Box Office: Open from 11:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Saturday, and 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. Sunday. On nights of performances, the box office remains open until 9:00 p.m. If a performance is delayed on a Saturday or Sunday, the box office hours will remain in effect. Telephone: 319/335-1160, or toll-free in Iowa 1-800-HANCHER.

Seating Policy: To avoid disrupting the performance, latecomers will be directed to the observation rooms and will be seated during an appropriate break in the performance, at the discretion of the management. If you must leave during a performance and later wish to re-enter the auditorium, an usher will escort you to an observation booth until an intermission or the conclusion of the performance.

Greenroom: The greenroom, located on the first floor of the lobby, is the site of discussions preceding many events and is also a convenient place to meet artists following a performance. Ask an usher or check the lobby sign for availability of performers.

Coughing and Electronic Watches: The auditorium's acoustics amplify the sounds of coughing and other noises. Please turn off your electronic watch alarm. The use of a handheld electronic device can disturb others. If you cough persistently, you may wish to return to the greenroom, where an usher can direct you to one of the soundproof observation rooms.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in the auditorium. If you wish to smoke during intermissions, you may do so only in the designated areas of the cafe and of the west end of the lobby.

Cameras and Tape Recorders: In compliance with copyright laws and contractual arrangements with artists, photographs and recordings may not be made during a performance. Please ask your camera and tape recorders with the house manager or an usher.

Restrooms and Drinking Fountains: Located on either side of the lobby and mezzanine.

A Unique, New Performance Nightly.

Now that you've found your seat, the lights are dimmed, and the orchestra is poised for its cue, spend these few moments considering another performance — the Holiday Inn Iowa City.

Center Stage: Downtown's only international star. The "Holiday Inn" in our name is not organized worldwide, but we're also proud for its unique features and location. Just a block from the University of Iowa, campus, major medical facilities, major corporations and major thoroughfares, AXA's most important element is our commitment to guest satisfaction.

We've just finished our fine tuning. At the Holiday Inn Iowa City, we've chosen to reaffirm our commitment to excellence by making some very significant changes. Now when you stay with us, you'll enjoy our newly expanded accommodations, including a new addition, with first floor suites overlooking the pedestrian mall. Plus, new lobby carpeting and many other cosmetic appointments. Just do business and leisure guests are about our new look "there's now a one-stop shopping experience at the Holiday Inn Iowa City."

A hot new "intermission" spot. Take a break from the rush of everyday life and enjoy an elegant pub, complete with great food, drinks and nightly entertainment. PLUS a happy hour that always wins rave reviews. Featuring a new DJ and dance tunes, Tuesday-Saturday from 6:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.

A new culinary experience. If unique dining is your idea of an art form, meet the man who's been instrumental to our success, Executive Chef David Mackey. Add his own flavor and style to our menu of great American dishes, including Chinese and Asian specialties in Fine Food and Spirits.

For board meetings or wedding receptions, we've got just what it takes to earn you a standing ovation.

Amenities? Ours bring down the house. Free copies of USA Today, complimentary coffee in the lobby and unlimited use of our pool, whirlpool, sauna, and steam room are all included. Just take a look. They're just part of what makes the Holiday Inn Iowa City the best.

We'd rather skip the carpet calls and have you call us at (319) 337-4038.

Holiday Inn
Iowa City
210 S. Dubuque Street
Iowa City, IA 52240
Iowa Center for the Arts

CALENDAR

Performance time is 8:00 p.m., except as noted. For ticketed events, tickets are available from the Hancher Box Office, except as noted. Ticket price listings are current as of the publish printing date, and are subject to change. Check with the box office for current information.

MUSEUM OF ART EXHIBITIONS

November 3-4April 21
Art from the Wilderness

MUSIC, THEATRE, AND DANCE

[Footnotes]

Friday 4 Monday
Billy Taylor Trio
Lecture/Demonstration
1:30 p.m.
Harper Hall
Music Building
City High Orchestra
7:30 p.m.
Clapp Recital Hall

Friday 5 Tuesday
Billy Taylor Trio
Ull students $18.00/$16.00/$16.00
Nonstudents $22.50/$20.50/$18.50
Hancher Auditorium

Friday 6 Wednesday
West High Concert and
Symphonic Bands
7:30 p.m.
Clapp Recital Hall

Friday 7 Thursday
Medea
Ull students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
Nonstudents $11.50
Mabie Theatre

Friday 8 Friday
Collegium Musicum
Clapp Recital Hall
Paul Dresher Ensemble
Pianos
Youth $10.00/$9.00
Ull students and senior citizens $16.00/$14.40
Nonstudents $20.00/$18.00
Hancher Auditorium

[Performance description, Hancher auditorium, 7:30 p.m.]

Medea
Ull students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
Nonstudents $11.50
Mabie Theatre

February 9 Saturday
Paul Dresher Ensemble
Pianos
Youth $10.00/$9.00
Ull students and senior citizens $16.00/$14.40
Nonstudents $20.00/$18.00
Hancher Auditorium

Medea
Ull students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
Nonstudents $11.50
Mabie Theatre

[Performance discussion, Theatre B, Theatre Building, 7:15 p.m.]

February 10 Sunday
Preacid School Concert
5 p.m.
Hancher Auditorium
Scott McCoy, tenor
Clapp Recital Hall

February 12 Tuesday
Leonie Price
Ull students $24.00/$22.40/$20.00
Nonstudents $50.00/$48.00/$25.00
Hancher Auditorium

February 13 Wednesday
Medea
Ull students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
Nonstudents $11.50
Mabie Theatre

February 14 Thursday
Medea
Ull students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
Nonstudents $11.50
Mabie Theatre

February 15 Friday
Medea
Ull students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
Nonstudents $11.50
Mabie Theatre

February 16 Saturday
Symphony Band Concert
Hancher Auditorium
Composers Workshop Concert
Clapp Recital Hall
Medea
Ull students, 18 and under, and senior citizens $8.00
Nonstudents $11.50
Mabie Theatre

[Performance discussion, Theatre B, Theatre Building, 7:15 p.m.]

February 17 Sunday
Honor Band Concert
2:30 p.m.
Clapp Recital Hall

Hancher Auditorium Information

Box Office: Open from 11:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Saturday, and 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. Sunday. On nights of performances, the box office remains open until 9:00 p.m. If a performance fails to sell out on a Saturday or Sunday, box office hours are 1:00 to 9:00 p.m.
Telephone: 319/355-1160, or toll-free in Iowa 1-800-HANCHER

Seating Policy: To avoid disrupting the performance, latecomers will be directed to the observation rooms and will be seated during an appropriate break in the performance, at the discretion of the management. If you must leave during a performance and later wish to re-enter the auditorium, an usher will escort you to an observation booth until an intermission or the conclusion of the performance.

Greentree: The greenroom, located on the lower level of the lobby, is the site of discussions preceding many events and is also a convenient place to meet artists following a performance. Ask an usher or check the lobby sign for availability of performers.

Coughing and Electronic Devices: The auditorium's acoustics amplify the sounds of coughing and other noises. Please turn off your electronic watch alarm. The use of a handheld stethoscope helps to muffle a cough or sneeze, and cough drops are available from the ushers. If coughing persists, you may wish to return to the lobby, where an usher can direct you to one of the soundproof observation rooms.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted in the auditorium. If you wish to smoke during intermissions, you may do so only in the designated areas of the cafe and of the west end of the lobby.

Cameras and Tape Recorders: In compliance with copyright laws and contractual agreements with artists, photographs and recordings may not be made during a performance. Please check your cameras and tape recorders with the house manager or an usher.

Restrooms and Drinking Fountains: Located on either side of the lobby and mezzanine.

A Unique, New Performance Nightly.

Now that you've found your seat, the lights are dimmed and the orchestra is poised for its cue, spend these last few minutes considering another performance... the Holiday Inn Iowa City.

Center stage: Downtown's only international star.

The "Holiday Inn" in our name is recognized worldwide, but we've also adapted this for our equally impressive location. It's a block from U of Iowa's campus, major medical facilities, major corporations and major thoroughfares. And, more importantly, our cast is committed to guest satisfaction.

We've just finished our fine tuning.

At the Holiday Inn Iowa City, we've chosen to reaffirm our commitment to excellence by making some very significant changes. Now when you stay with us, you'll enjoy our newly expanded accommodations, including a new addition, with six floor spaces overlooking the pedestrian mall. Plus new lobby carpeting and many other cosmetic appointments, such as doorman service and leisure guests problems. And all of our new look! "Hawkeye's Fine Food & Spirits"

A hot new "intermission" spot.

Take a break from the hustle and bustle of Iowa City's hot new "intermission" spot... "Holiday Inn's Iowa City's hottest new getaway pub! Great food, drinks, special menus and nightly specials. Plus a Happy Hour that always wins rave reviews. Featuring a new DJ and dance tunes, Tuesday-Saturday from 5:00-9:00 p.m. to close.

A new culinary experience

If unique dining is your idea of fine art, meet the man who's been instrumental in our success, New Executive Chef David Musial. Add his own flavor and spice to our newly created restaurant, Chauncey's Fine Food & Spirits.

For board meetings or wedding receptions, you've got what it takes to earn you a standing ovation.

Amenities? Our big down the house.

Free copies of USA Today, complimentary coffee in the lobby and unlimited use of our pool, whirlpool, sauna, and steam room, $14.00. You're just a part of everything that makes Iowa City's finest.

We'd rather skip the curtain calls and have you call us at (319) 337-4058.

Holiday Inn
210 S. Dubuque Street
Iowa City, IA 52240
OUR SOCIAL REGISTER IS SECOND TO NONE

M.C. GINSBERG JEWELERS IS THE SOURCE FOR EXTRAORDINARY GIFTS TO CREATE
A HOME OF DISTINCTION.
WE OFFER A UNIQUE SELECTION OF
Cartier, Lalique, Ginori, Bernardaud,
Alessi, Swarovsky, Tiffany & Co.,
& Haviland de Parlonis,
INCLUDING EXCEPTIONAL OBJECTS
THAT ARE FOUND NOWHERE ELSE.
BEGIN WITH THE RIGHT CHOICES.

M.C. GINSBERG JEWELERS, INC.
110 EAST WASHINGTON STREET
IOWA CITY, IOWA 52240
319 • 351 • 3700 • 800 • 525 • 502
FAX 319 • 351 • 0875
PRIVATE APPOINTMENTS AVAILABLE