MEREDITH MONK is a composer, singer, filmmaker, and director/chorographer. A pioneer in what is now called “extended vocal technique” and “interdisciplinary performance,” Ms. Monk is the fourth-generation singer in her family. Since graduating from Sarah Lawrence College in 1964, Ms. Monk has created more than 80 music/theater/dance and film works.

During a career that spans 30 years, she has been acclaimed by audiences and critics as a major creative force in the performing arts. “When the time comes, perhaps a hundred years from now, tally up achievements in the performing arts during the last third of the present century, one name that seems sure to loom large is that of Meredith Monk.” In originality, in scope, in depth, there are few to rival her” (Washington Post).

She has received numerous awards, including two Guggenheim Fellowships, a Brandeis Creative Arts Award, three Obies (including an award for Sustained Achievement), two Village Awards, a Bessie for Sustained Creative Achievement, the 1986 National Music Theater Award, 16 ASCAP Awards for Musical Composition, and the 1992 Dance Magazine Award. She has been awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Arts from Bard College and the University of the Arts; she was named a MacDowell Sigma Alpha Iota Fellow, a Norton Stevens Fellow, and is a recipient of The Coridon Nancarrow and Yoko Sighara Fellowship. Her recordings Dolmen Music (ECM New Series) and Our Lady of Later The Vanguard Tapes (Merga) were both honored with the German Critics Prize for Best Records of 1981 and 1986. Her film Ellis Island won the CINE Golden Eagle Award, and was awarded prizes at the Atlanta and San Francisco Film Festivals, and was shown nationally on PBS.

In 1968, Ms. Monk founded The House, a company dedicated to the interdisciplinary approach to performance, and in 1978 she formed Meredith Monk and Vocal Ensemble to perform her unique vocal compositions. Ms. Monk has made ten recordings, most of which are with ECM New Series. Ms. Monk's feature length film, Book of Days, aired on PBS, appeared internationally at film festivals, was released theatrically, and was chosen for the 1991 Whitney Biennial. Her opera, Atlas, commissioned by the Houston Grand Opera, Hancher Auditorium, theWalker Art Center, and the American Music Theater Festival, premiered in February 1991, toured the United States and Europe, and had its New York City premiere at the Brooklyn Academy of Music in 1992. Other recent New York City performances include a 1993 concert at Merkin Hall which included the world premières of St. Petersburg Waltz, Volcano Songs (Duets), and New York Requiem; a new site-specific work American Archology #1: Rosevelt Island in September 1994; and a return engagement of Volcano Songs, her newest solo music/theater/dance work at PS 122.

Upcoming plans include continued domestic and international touring, a commission to compose a new work for the Western Wind Vocal Ensemble, continued work on a documentary film of Education of the Girlchild, and a new opera Song of the Lark.

DEBBY LEE COHEN has worked with Meredith Monk since 1984. She designed costumes and environment for Facing North; co-designed the scenery for Atlas and designed scenery for Arts from Under and Above, and re-created scenery for the revival productions of Quany and The Traveller. She has designed sets, masks, and puppets for other multimedia artists including Ping Chong, David Rousseau, the Talking Band, and Theodora Skipitares; and sculptural and promotional costumes for Ben & Jerry's Ice Cream. For the past seven years, Ms. Cohen has designed the giant puppets for the lead section of New York's Village Halloween Parade. She also directs both commercial and independent film animation, including work which has been aired on MTV, Showtime, The Movie Channel, and Public Television. She is the recipient of a New York Foundation for the Arts Fellowship Award in Film, a New York State Council on the Arts Film Production Award, and a National Endowment for the Arts Inter-Arts Grant.

PAUL KRAJNIAK is a designer/conceptual artist and creator of multimedia theater work. He first met Meredith Monk at age 19 when he performed a walk-on role in her opera epic, Vessel, at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and later in a performance in her New York City loft. He works with a visual language to design and create objects, costumes, and environments which range from the very small to the very large. He has designed and created costumes for dance and theater since the mid-1970s. Some of his designs can be seen in the work of the Bauer Contemporary Ballet in Milwaukee, performance artist Mark Anderson, and television work for musician Todd Rundgren. He also designed for Ping Cheng throughout much of the 1980s, designing for such pieces as A.M.A. and A Race. His own performance work serves as a laboratory for experimenting with new concepts for his visual and prop oriented designs. Some of his own works include Bird in Dog Jungle. The Lost of The Dinosaurs, and Knie Deep in Atlantis. He is currently working with True North Films on a pilot for television called “The Living Room.”

Angels

Lifts American Theater to New Heights

It has been hailed as "the most thrilling American play in years" by Frank Rich in the New York Times, and now it is on its way to Hancher in all its rambunctious, provocative glory. It's Angels in America, Tony Kushner's Pulitzer Prize- and Tony Award-winning epic and it kicks in Iowa City for two performances of each of its two parts on October 28 and 29.

Angels in America has triumphed in Los Angeles and London, on Broadway, and during its first year of national touring. True to its reputation as one of the liveliest and most sophisticated arts towns in the country, Iowa City will be the smallest town on the Angels' national tour.

The play is a spirited account of the '80s and the burgeoning AIDS crisis, focusing on themes of sexuality, religion, and ethnicity that converge into a kaleidoscopic view of modern-day America. Subtitled A Gay Fantasia on National Themes, Angels in America continually connects the individual characters, most of whom live at the margins of society, with the political and social issues which have ripped this society apart.

"The history of this country has been determined entirely by the way it has dealt with minorities...being gay or being a woman or being a person of color in this country automatically puts you in a political position...I didn't think enough had been written dramatically to connect issues which confront the gay community on a daily basis with the larger political agenda of the nation. The political concerns of people who've been seen as being on the margins of society are actually the central concerns of society and American history," Kushner has said.

In his eight-actor, 29-character, seven-hour, six-act saga, Kushner serves up an impressive panorama - as fiercely funny as it is profound and deft - of modern times. It's a hypnotically riveting slice of life and death in the United States in this new, dark age of AIDS.

Angels focuses on two young couples who are coming apart at the seams. One is a pair of Mormon Mormons who have moved to Brooklyn. Joe Pitt is a buttoned-down Republican lawyer easing his way out of the closet into the gay mainstream while his wife, Harper, slowly realizes into her own Valium-induced delusions. The other relationship is between two New York gays, Louis Ironson, a Jewish leftist and legal clerk, is also in pain-avoidance flight from his AIDS-infected WASP lover, Prior Walter, breathing fire and smoke all over the central couple is Roy Cohn, the conservative icon and notorious homophobe who refuses to go quietly after he is diagnosed with the "gay disease."

The astonishing image separating the two parts - the one that climaxes "Millennium Approaches" and the one that starts "Perestroika" - is actually the vivid vision that brought the whole cavalcade into focus for Kushner in the first place, coming to him in a dream sometime in the mid-eighties. The first person to die of AIDS that he knew personally had just passed away, and he dreamed the friend had been visited on his deathbed by a beautiful angel, descending from heaven and crashing through the bedroom ceiling to get there. That celestial spectacle gave Kushner the title - Angels in America.

Iowa audiences will have an unparalleled opportunity to explore the extraordinary richness of Tony Kushner's theatrical imagination this summer when Summer Rep dedicates its single-playwright season to his work. From June 22 through July 22 the repertory company will present three plays - Slavs, Hydrosophia and A Bright Room Called Day - and his adaptation of seventeenth-century playwright Pierre Corneille's The Illusion. For information about tickets for Summer Rep's Tony Kushner festival call the Hancher Box Office at 335-1160 or toll-free in Iowa 1-800-HANCHER.

Hancher will present two performances of each part of Angels in America. "Millennium Approaches" will be performed at 2 and 8 p.m. on October 28. "Perestroika" will be performed at 2 and 8 p.m. on October 29. Although both sections share characters and plot lines, each can stand on its own. Patrons should be aware that the play contains mature themes and sexuality explicit scenes. Patrons who purchase tickets at the same time to both parts will receive a special discount. To request a 1995-96 season brochure, stop by or call the Hancher Box Office.

If you must leave during a performance and later wish to re-enter the auditorium, an usher will escort you to an observation booth until an intermission or at the conclusion of the performance.

Greenroom: The greenroom, located on the river side of the lobby, is the site of discussions preceding many events and is also a convenient place to meet artists following a performance. Ask an usher, or check the lobby sign for availability of performers.

Coughing and Electronic Watches: The auditorium's acoustics amplify the sounds of coughing and other noises. Please turn off your electronic watch alarm. The use of a handheld fan to muffle a cough or sneeze, and cough drops are available from the ushers. If coughing persists, you may wish to return to the lobby, where an usher can direct you to one of the soundproof observation rooms.

Smoking: Smoking is not permitted anywhere in the auditorium, lobby, or cafe. If you wish to smoke during intermissions, you may leave the building, but please take your ticket stub to re-enter the building.

Cameras and Tape Recorders: In compliance with copyright laws and contractual arrangements with artists, photographs and recordings may not be made during a performance. Please check your cameras and tape recorders with the house manager at the usher. Restrooms and Drinking Fountains: Located on either side of the lobby and mezzanine.
