Ethos Percussion Group

Hailed by the New York Times for its “expert togetherness, sensitivity and zest,” the Ethos Percussion Group celebrates over a decade of extraordinary performances. From evocative Guatemalan marimba music to the high energy of Japanese taiko drumming, from contemporary masterpieces by composers John Cage and Lou Harrison to Ring/Bang/Boom, the ensemble’s popular education program for children, Ethos is revolutionizing the world of percussion. Composed of virtuosic performers Michael Sparaos, Joseph Granley, Eric Phinney and Youoi Sheronick, Ethos is based in New York and tours extensively throughout the United States. The group gave its international debut at London’s Wigmore Hall in February of 1998 and has performed at Lincoln Center’s Alice Tully Hall, Carnegie’s Wall Recital Hall, the Guthrie Theater in Minneapolis, Atlanta’s Spivey Hall, and the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

Thousands of children have enjoyed their in-school programs and residencies at such venues as the American Museum of Natural History, the Children’s Museum of Manhattan and the historic Zeiteron Theater in New Bedford, Massachusetts. Students at the Juilliard School and the universities of Maryland, Vermont, and Rhode Island have been inspired by their advanced clinics. Recording releases for the group include a self-titled debut compact disc featuring music by John Cage, Paul Smadbeck, Dave Hollinden, and Minoru Miki, the Bizet/Shchedrin Carmen Suite with the Philadelphia Virtuosi Chamber Orchestra, and The Persistence of Past Chantattes, which features the works of Charles Griffis, Peter Garland and Carlos Strauss.

Whether performing traditional compositions from South America, India, Africa and the Pacific Rim, or introducing new works by today’s composers, Ethos captivates audiences of all ages.

El Parachicos

Traditional, Arr. Laurence Kaptein

El Parachicos is a charming example of the rich heritage of Guatemalan and Mexican marimba music. Much more than a musical instrument, the marimba in Chiapas, Mexico, is a distinctive cultural aspect, which is woven into the fabric of everyday life. It is nearly impossible to travel to any part of Mexico’s southernmost state without hearing the haunting sounds of “las medradas que cantan” (the wood that sings). El Parachicos is traditional music from the historic city of Chía de Corzo. There is a festival there each January called Parachicos. In a region that is divided by rugged geography, as well as many social, political and linguistic differences, the marimba is perceived by many to be one of their society’s strongest unifying elements.

33 Sonna Zobabara

Carlos Stai (b. 1964)

Carlos Stai is a percussion performer and composer who is professor at the Sao Paulo State University-UNESP, and also co-director of their percussion ensemble, Grupo PIAP. In 1988, he created Duo Experimental with percussionist Edison Gioniess, developing several techniques of playing and a specific musical notation for scrapers. In 1990, Stai created RECO-Centro de Estudos de Raspadores, which concentrates on several areas of study concerning scrapers around the world. He received his MFA in world music from Cal Arts in 1995. 33 Sonna Zobabara features bamboo and metal “reco-reco,” or scrapers, and utilizes a variety of playing techniques. Brazilian rattles and triangles are featured along with two congas and a large PVC tube. The work is noted with a notation system developed by Mr. Stai specifically for scrapers.

Apple Blossom

Peter Garland (b. 1952)

American Peter Garland composed Apple Blossom in Vancouver, British Columbia, in 1972. The title comes from Andre Breton’s poem, “on me dit quelle-fleur.” The work is for one marimba with four players, and delves into the structure, growth, depth and movement of a single 13-note chord. Peter Garland was born in 1952 in Maine. He studied with Harold Budd and James Tenney at Cal Arts and has had long student-mentor friendships with Lou Harrison, Carol Nonacor, Paul Bowles and the late Dana Rudhyar. He edited and published Soundings Press for 20 years, and has written two books of essays on American music and culture. His musical works after 1971 were marked by a return to a radical consonance and a simplification of formal structure influenced by Cage, Harrisson, early minimalism and an interest in world music. He has written pieces for pianists Aki Takahashi and Herbert Henck, accordionist Gity Kavesczew, the Abel-Steinberg-Winant Trio and the Kronos Quartet. In 1991, Essential Music in New York City presented a 20-year retrospective of Garland’s work.

Marimba Spiritus

Minoru Mikó (b. 1930)

Marimba Spiritus was completed in 1984, and Minoru Mikó’s development of the piece was greatly affected by the famine occurring in Ethiopia at that time. The 16-minute work is divided into two contrasting parts. The opening, a “static requiem,” utilizes chord-like marimba sonorities, which are later colored with metal and wooden percussion instruments. This is followed by Mikó’s “lively resurrection,” an allegro in several sections featuring rapid, virtuosic marimba lines and accompaniment inspired by the folks drumming style of Japan.

Rhythm Song

Paul Smadbeck (b. 1954), Arr. Ethan

Rhythm Song is a minimalist work written in 1984 for “one or more marimbas.” Each of the marimba player’s four mallets has its own simple melody. These melodies merge and evolve throughout the piece, creating intricate rhythms and harmonic textures reminiscent of African baton music. In Ethan’s arrangement of Rhythm Song, various percussion instruments add their unique voices to the two marimbas, which play Smadbeck’s melodic patterns displaced by one octave. Based in New Jersey, American composer Paul Smadbeck has written extensively for the marimba. His many studies and works for the instrument are performed at schools and conservatories throughout the world.

Sol Tunnels

Glen Velaz (b. 1949)

This piece begins with a key element in my approach to music and drumming: the synchronization of voice and drum. My studies of South Indian and Arabic drumming introduced me to the value and depth of this connection. The relationship of 2 to 1, in pitch terms, an octave is manifested in this piece through interaction of the voices and drums in various multiples of an octave; i.e. 8 to 1 (4 octaves), 4 to 1 (2 octaves), and 2 to 1 (1 octave).

The feeling of focused synchronization, also called “being in tune,” is the energetic arena for the opening of the piece. This profoundly human ability to synchronize different parts of our being, vocal (mind), hands (body) and energy (spirit), I believe is the basis for all our ecstatic experiences, musical or otherwise.

I credit my melodic approach to drumming to the influence of Arabic drumming. Much of the rhythmic interplay that happens during the course of Sol Tunnels is inspired by my appreciation of South Indian drumming.

Just as the voice shows me a direct opening to breath awareness, memory skills and body pulses, the instrumental door to all of my musical explorations has been the frame drum, the simplest of drums, which includes our modern tambourine.

Used Car Salesman

For Percussion Quartet

Michael Daugherty (b. 1954)

In the late 50s, when I was growing up in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, my father was a used car salesman at Rapid’s Chevrolet by day and a dance band drummer by night. While my father was known for his honesty, I remember the stories he told of unscrupulous used car salesman. In my composition, I combine the world of percussion with the wheeling and dealing atmosphere of the infamous used car lot. In Used Car Salesman, we hear the harmony and dissonance of the Sturm and Drang of America’s used car culture.

My composition is ten 10 minutes in length and is scored as follows:

- Percussion 1 (vibraphone, tambourine)
- Percussion 2 (marimba, maracas)
- Percussion 3 (Eight metal, two gongs, tambourine, claves, vibraphon, two car horns, tambourine)
- Percussion 4 (Bass drum, four tom-tom or paddle drums, bongos, piccolo snare, four woodblocks, three cowbells, four cymbals, claves, maracas)

In addition to the percussion quartet performing on a wide variety of percussion instruments I punctuate the rhythmically complex counterpoint with spoken text:

Michael Daugherty biography:

American composer Michael Daugherty is currently composer-in-residence with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Michael Daugherty has created a niche in the music world that is uniquely his own, composing concert music inspired by contemporary American popular culture. His Metropolis Symphony (1988-1993) for orchestra and Bizarro (1993) for symphonic winds are a tribute to Superman comics, recorded by conductor David Zinman and the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra for Argo. Works commissioned and recorded on Nonesuch by the Kronos Quartet include Elvis Everywhere (1993) for three Elvis impersonators and string quartet, and Sing Song: J.Edgar Hoover (1992). Daugherty’s opera Jackie O (1997) was premiered and recorded for Argo by the Houston Grand Opera. American Icons, an Argo CD devoted to his chamber music, has been recorded by the London Sinfonietta and the Dogs of Desire.

Born in 1954 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Daugherty is the son of a dance-band drummer and the eldest of five brothers, all professional musicians. Daugherty grew up playing keyboards in jazz, rock, and funk bands in Iowa. At North Texas State University (1972-76), he continued performing jazz and composed his first orchestral work. In 1976 he moved to New York City, where he studied composition at the Manhattan School of Music and played piano for modern dance companies.

In the following years, Daugherty divided his time between living in Europe and the United States. He was a Fulbright Fellow in Paris, composing computer music at Olivier’s IRCAM (1979-80). Daugherty received his doctorate degree in music composition from Yale University in 1986. During this time, he also collaborated with jazz arranger Gil Evans in New York City. Daugherty moved to Amsterdam and pursued further studies in music composition with Gyorgy Ligeti in Hamburg, Germany (1982-84).

Upon his return to America, Daugherty performed live synthesizer concerts of his own music with classic silent films, and played jazz piano in lounges and nightclubs. He came to national attention as a composer when Snap! and Blue like an Orange (1987) won a Kennedy Center Friedheim Award. Since that time, his music has been performed by the major orchestras and new music ensembles in the United States, United Kingdom, and Italy. After teaching music composition several years at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, Daugherty joined the music composition faculty at the University of Michigan (Ann Arbor) in 1991 where he is Professor of Composition.

Currently, commissions include new orchestral works for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Philadelphia Orchestra, and the Ethos Percussion Group. Daugherty has received numerous awards for his music, including recognition from the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters, and fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation and National Endowment for the Arts. His music is published exclusively by Peer Music Classical, New York, and represented in Europe by Faber Music, London.

As part of an extended planning period, teams of teachers in the participating schools developed units of study which were expanded and enriched by visiting artists. In February and March, graduate students and faculty from The University of Iowa's Art Share Program conducted workshops with students on topics related to the units of study. Under the direction of the teachers, students built their own percussion instruments which they used during workshops in their schools by Ethos Percussion Group. Several schools also hosted informal performances by the students and Ethos for their friends and families.

The schools and their units of study:

Cedar Rapids
Johnson School of the Arts "There's No Place Like Home": Movement and Machines in the History of Cedar Rapids

McKinley Middle School
An exploration of the variety of percussion instruments

Columbus Junction
Elementary School: Making drums from clay

Mt. Vernon
Washington Elementary; World Village; Storytelling, writing, music and art in Africa and Australia

Middle School Cultural diversity in music

West Branch
Hoover Elementary School Combining student poems with paintings and percussion

Hoover Middle School

Iowa City
Roosevelt Elementary "The Whole World Has the Beat": Music from art, art from music

Southeast Junior High
High Africa and the Middle East: physical and cultural similarities and differences

Mid-Prairie
Wellman Elementary School Storytelling in five U.S. regions

Mid-Prairie Middle School
Rhythm: reading and writing poetry with instrumental accompaniment

In addition to the in-school workshops, Ethos also presented two performances for school groups and a broadcast to 12 schools throughout Iowa on the Iowa Communications Network.

All of this even before tonight's concert!

Further support for the Ethos Percussion Group residency comes from the Heartland Arts Fund and Chamber Music America’s "A Musical Celebration of the Millennium" with support from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Josephine Bay Paul and C. Michael Paul Foundation, the Susan W. Rose Fund for Music, the Helen F. Whitaker Fund and the Chamber Music America Endowment Fund.

I'm not feisty. I'm not sugary. I'm not obnoxious. I'm not a lot of things.

—Dawn Upshaw

What Dawn Upshaw is one of the most celebrated singers of our time. Whether she is performing on the opera or recital stage, she has dazzled the world with her incredible vision not only by lending her voice to traditional repertoire and familiar operatic roles, but also as a champion of new music. Upshaw is one of a handful of classical singers whose genius lies as much in her choice of material as in the delivery of it, and she is always finding new ways to develop her art. "I've become preoccupied with the singability that I feel has overtaken the song recital," says Upshaw, "and I'm trying to break loose."

Upshaw will undoubtedly challenge the boundaries of the song recital on May 3 when she takes the Hancher stage with the Kronos Quartet in the world premiere performance of "Tonight Is The Night." "Tonight Is The Night," a Hancher commission supported by Procter & Gamble and the National Endowment for the Arts, is an evening of music focusing on art forms from around the world. From Hungarian to Hindi, and from English to Egyptian, Upshaw and Kronos draw together a rich blend of languages and musical traditions in this far-reaching project.

The centerpiece of this concert is a new work by Mexican composer Gabriela Ortiz commissioned especially for Upshaw and Kronos. Ortiz's piece uses a five-part work inspired by Mayan songs. Also on the program are songs by Zoltán Kodály and Stephen Foster, and many others made famous by such artists as Patsy Cline, Indian singer Asha Bhosle, Arab singer Oum Kalthoum, and Portugal's Amalia Rodrigues. Composers including Osvaldo Golijov (whose music was played by Kronos in their September 15, 1999 Hancher performance) and Jihad Racy were commissioned to create special arrangements of these traditional music.

This is not the first time that Dawn Upshaw and the Kronos Quartet have worked together. They premiered Steve Mackey's "Among the Vanishing" in 1988. In 1994 they recorded and performed Dmitry Yanov-Yanovsky's "Locromosy" on the album Night Prayers.

Individually and together, Kronos and Upshaw have been in the vanguard of musical exploration. "Tonight Is The Night" continues this journey of the universal language.

Tickets still remain for this May 3 concert. For ticket information, contact the Hancher Box Office at 319/335-1160 or tollfree at 1-800-HANCHER.
Hancher Guild

Hancher Guild, one of Johnson County's premier volunteer organizations, works with the Hancher Auditorium professional staff to add direct community involvement to the auditorium's fine artistic programming.

The Guild's membership reflects a cross section of eastern Iowa's residents, representing both University and non-University affiliations, those new to the area, and those who recall the founding of the Hancher 17 years ago. The members bring varied skills, perspectives, and experiences to their volunteer projects which include:

- management and staffing of the lobby gift shop The Showcase;
- entertaining visiting artists;
- organizing and facilitating Young Audience activities;
- supporting audience development throughout eastern Iowa;
- and advising on programming and services.

Although the Guild's membership includes contributors to Hancher Circle and the Hancher Enrichment Fund, no financial investment is required to become a Hancher Guild member. Rather, this working organization, run by its own board of directors, seeks to identify and utilize the time, talents, and interests of its members to meet the diverse requirements of supporting the delivery of high quality programming. Every effort is made to involve every member in some aspect of the Guild's agenda—no time commitment is too small.

Members have a unique opportunity to observe the business of entertaining and attracting the public from the inside, and they enjoy the satisfaction of working together in support of the arts. For further information about the Hancher Guild, call co-presidents, Melissa Blum and Mike Huber at 351-1772 or membership committee chairs, Mary Wall (338-2618) and Janice Carpenter (338-8613) or the Hancher administrative offices at 351-1130.

Hancher Showcase

The Hancher Guild Showcase, which is located in the northwest corner of the Hancher Auditorium lobby, begins its fifth year in this new location during the 1999-2000 season. This delightful gift shop, which is operated by approximately 65-75 volunteers each year, provides an opportunity for Hancher patrons to purchase unique gifts that are available at reasonable prices and not found elsewhere in the Iowa City area. Profits from The Showcase help to support Hancher’s education program. In 1999-2000 proceeds are being used to support Stage Door performances by the Children’s Theatre Company, the Alnico Trio, and The Guthrie Theater. These are matinee performances at greatly reduced prices for school groups.

A Showcase merchandising committee makes several buying trips during the year to gift shows, as well as contacting local artists, and ordering from catalog companies to seek out exciting merchandise. Popular gift choices this past year included character dolls, jewelry, and a variety of small musical instruments.

The Guild Showcase is open during every Hancher event and on Wednesdays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

When attending a Hancher event take time to browse and shop the Guild Showcase. New merchandise is being added all the time.
