Dear Chuck and the Hancher Staff,

Congratulations on the opening of the new, Cesar Pelli-designed Hancher Auditorium. It is truly a spectacular design and quite clearly a labor of love. Enclosed is our ad for the inside front cover of your program. Lazare Diamonds and Hands Jewelers are proud to be a part of your new building, your new season and your glorious future. We have been working with other performing arts companies with a premier venue and一个月 to provide our clients with the best experiences of their lives.

It is hard to believe that it’s been eight years since we opened a performing arts venue and it is alive, not only in Iowa City, but in the state! And now we have a home and a beautifully designed showpiece of our own.

We are proud to be a part of your brilliant future, providing performance tickets and lowans with the most memorable events.

With warmest regards,

“Must we remain in the South or go elsewhere? Where can we go to feel that security which other people feel?”

- A Colored Woman in Alabama, 1902

DRUM CALL
Choreographed/Composed by: Jakari Sherman and W.E. Smith
Original Recording of “African Villages” by: W.E. Smith

The drum has always been essential to African culture everywhere and is critical to the rhythm of Migration. Drum Call depicts an African village, the arrival of foreign ships, and the ensuing turmoil.

GO WEST: circa 1890
Choreographed by: Makeda Abraham, Mfoniso Akpan, and Delaunce Jackson

When Africans arrived in America, their music and dance traditions were ingrained in the culture. Go West explores how West African dance and drum traditions spread and maintained their vitality in the New World.

DRUMFOLK
Choreographed by: David Pleasant

Drumfolk is a celebration of the early development of African-American percussive traditions including patting juba, hambone, and ring shout – giving way to art forms like tap dance and stepping. While exploring this heritage, Drumfolk reflects on the harsh conditions in the South that coincided with the practice of these transcendent musical forms. The work shows how the progression of such hardships preempted escape and migration, and how the fortitude of the enslaved led to the creation of new traditions like spirituals, field hollers, and shouts.

WADE SUITE
Choreographed by: Kirsten Ledford, LeeAnet Noble, and Paul Woodruff

Wade shows the continuity in African and African-American percussive dance traditions by blending the South African Gumboot Dance, tap, and stepping with the African-American spiritual.

Movement One: THE DEACON’S DANCE
The African-American spiritual played a significant role in lifting the spirit in troubled times. In The Deacon’s Dance, twodeacons prepare for Sunday services.
Movement Two: WADE

After the abolition of slavery, the church remained a center of refuge and community-building amidst the harsh conditions and served as a primary means of communication for industries recruiting labor during World War I. Wade highlights the importance of the church in helping African Americans survive the South, and its critical role in helping vulnerable migrants resettle in the North.

INTERMISSION

“I was leaving the South to fling myself into the unknown. I was taking a part of the South to transplant in alien soil, to see if it could grow differently, if it could drink of new and cool rains, bend in strange winds, respond to the warmth of other suns, and, perhaps, to bloom.”

-Richard Wright

TRANE SUITE

Original Recording of “Trane” by: W. E. Smith

Throughout the Great Migration, the train was an important means of transporting people to the North. The entire railroad industry recruited heavily in the South and thus, economically, became a primary means of African American’s “one-way ticket” to a new life. Named in reference to John Coltrane and paying homage to Duke Ellington’s “Take the ‘A’ Train,” Trane is a journey in three parts, following the story of the Great Migration.

Movement One: TRANE

Choreographed by: Jakari Sherman
Creation of Trane made possible by the DC Jazz Festival

The opening movement, Trane, establishes the connection between past and present, the rhythm of the train north, Ellington’s classic score and the Alpha “train,” a traditional element of stepping practiced by brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.

Movement Two: OFF THE TRAIN

Choreographed by: Jakari Sherman

Three men arrive in the North, luggage in hand...thrilled about the possibilities.
Movement Three: MY MAN’S GONE NOW

Choreographed by: Mfoniso Akpan, Aseelah Allen, Dionne Eleby, Kevin Marr, and Jakari Sherman
Recording of “My Man’s Gone Now” by Nina Simone

During the migration, it was common for men to journey North without their wives or children because of the high cost of travel. This left many women at home in the South caring for children and struggling to find work. My Man’s Gone Now is the story of three women, each in a different phase of their transition to the North and ready to be reunited with their loved one.

CHICAGO

Choreographed by: Jakari Sherman

Between the 1910s and 1920, more than 400,000 African American migrants left the South for many Northern and Western cities, including Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Seattle, Los Angeles, and Chicago. By the end of the 1920s, that number exceeded 1.2 million. Chicago finds the migrant’s new rhythm in everyday situations; it is a percussive symphony using body percussion and vocals to highlight their collective self-transformation once these brave men and women arrived “Up North.”

During World War I there was a great migration north by southern Negroes

C. BRIAN WILLIAMS (Founder & Executive Director) is a native of Houston, Texas, and graduate of Howard University. He first learned to step as a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. - Beta Chapter, in the spring of 1989. While living in Southern Africa, he began to research stepping, exploring the many sides of this exciting, yet under-recognized American art form and founded Step Afrika! in 1994. Brian has performed, lectured, and taught in Europe, Central & South America, Africa, Asia, the Middle East, the Caribbean, and throughout the United States.

Brian is co-founder of the historic Step Afrika! International Cultural Festival in Johannesburg, South Africa. He has been cited as a “Civic/Community Visionary” by NV Magazine; a “Nation Builder” by the National Black Caucus of State Legislators; and one of DC’s leading “Arts Innovators” by Washington Life Magazine. Jakari studied Management Information Systems at the University of Houston and is a member of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc.

ABOUT STEP AFRIKA!

Founded in 1994 by C. Brian Williams, Step Afrika! is the first professional company dedicated to the tradition of stepping. It now ranks as one of the top ten African American dance companies in the United States.

The Company blends percussive dance styles practiced by historically African American fraternities and sororities, African traditional dance and influences from a variety of other dance and art forms. Performances are much more than dance shows; they integrate songs, storytelling, humor, and audience participation. The blend of technique, agility, and pure energy makes each performance unique and leaves the audience with their hearts pounding.

Step Afrika! promotes stepping as an educational tool for young people, focusing on teamwork, academic achievement and cross-cultural understanding. The Company reaches tens of thousands of Americans each year through a 50-city tour of colleges and theatres and performs globally as Washington DC’s one and only Cultural Ambassador. Step Afrika! has earned Mayor’s Arts Awards for Outstanding Contribution to Arts Education (2005); Innovation in the Arts (2008); and Excellence in an Artistic Discipline (2012); and most recently performed at the White House for President Barack Obama and the First Lady.

ABOUT THE MIGRATION SERIES

The Migration Series, by painter Jacob Lawrence, is jointly owned by The Phillips Collection, Washington, DC and the Museum of Modern Art, New York. This epic 60 panel tempera painting series depicts the migration of thousands of African Americans from the rural southern to the industrial cities of the North between 1910–1930. Prior to 1910, ninety percent of African Americans lived in the South. Between 1910–1920 the African-American population in the North increased 65 percent. It was a movement on an epic scale with an impact similar to the migration from southern and eastern Europe into northern U.S. cities decades earlier. Both migratory historical events are universal and shaped the cultural landscape of America.

INVISIBLE HAWKEYES:
UI’S BLACK MIGRATION STORIES

Some UI stories remain largely untold. This makes telling them both exhilarating and essential, especially when an extraordinary stepping performance amplifies their meaning.

From the 1930s through the 1960s, the University of Iowa played a significant role in the Civil Rights Movement. Iowa City was not the site of famous sit-ins and violent confrontation; nonetheless, the university emerged as an important participant in the struggle for racial equality. During an era when many states restricted African American access to higher education, the UI welcomed black students seeking degrees in cutting edge art and performance programs. These students brought rare talent, indomitable will, and collaborative spirits to their studies, and their accomplishments burnished the reputation of the State University of Iowa. Their experiences represent a different kind of migration narrative.

In contrast to the most prevalent Great Migration accounts that trace rural black Southerners’ journeys to new job opportunities in the urban North and Midwest, the story of young black people traveling from numerous cities to the UI remains a veritable secret. When these students departed from hometowns as varied as Houston, Washington, D.C., and Chicago, they set their sights on Iowa City as a destination of academic opportunity. Their educational odysseys at the UI reflect the difficulties of making dreams realities in mid-twentieth-century America.

The UI Press publication of Invisible Hawkeyes: African Americans at the University of Iowa during the Long Civil Rights Era and Hancher’s commission of Step Afrika!’s The Migration: Reflections of Jacob Lawrence honor these remarkable stories of black achievement and resilience.

Invisible Hawkeyes includes chapters on the departments of Music, Fine Arts, and Theatre—as well as athletics and the Writers’ Workshop—and features testimonials that movingly preserve the memories of black alumni. This printed account of black student experiences resonates powerfully with Step Afrika!’s The Migration.

Thus, with a long overdue flourish, we celebrate the black Hawkeyes who introduced American pluralism to a Midwestern and a national citizenry that often resisted such progress. These students’ artistic and athletic expertise bridged cultural gaps and pushed forward the struggle for racial equality. Their accomplishments remind us of how the world of performance has long played—and continues to occupy—a pivotal role in the African American pursuit of the American Dream.

We are proud to pull back the curtain on this part of the UI history and magnify it with Step Afrika!’s unique art.
